Italians Launch Mass Exodus From France

3,000 ANSWER DUCE'S EDICT TO COME HOME

Thousands More to Leave, Says Embassy Official; Rumblings of War Increase.

SEEN 'SLAP' AT FRENCH

Diplomats Believe Action Taken to 'Scare' Paris on Colony Demands.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Thousands of Italian citizens living in France were leaving for their homeland today in a mass exodus under Premier Mussolini's repatriation order for Italians abroad.

An Italian embassy spokesman said the exodus was "only a beginning."

Italian officials said several hundred Italians were leaving Paris aboard special trains in the afternoon while "nearly 3,000" were returning to their native land from Marseille, Bordeaux and other cities.

Viewed as Slap 'At France.'

Although the movement officially was in response to the repatriation order under which Italians in all lands were being called home, it was viewed in many quarters as a direct slap at France.

Officially, the French government accepted Rome's official reason that the repatriation followed the Fascist plan to get most of the Italians living abroad back to work in Italy.

Despite this reason, the occurrence of the repatriation at a crucial moment in Italian-French relations was viewed by responsible quarters as due to one of two things:

1. Either Italy feared war with France might come soon or;

2. Italy wanted "to frighten" the French into believing she was preparing to back up colonial demands on France with action.

Today's repatriation movement followed by a day a disclosure that Italian residents of Corsica, French island department near the Italian mainland, were returning home. The Italian embassy estimated the number to leave Corsica on Monday at about 1,000.

10 Million Live Abroad.

(Italy estimates the number of Italians living abroad at 10,000,000, a figure which does not take into account naturalizations and includes the children born of Italians abroad.

(According to this figure there are 992,000 Italians in France, 3,749,000 in the United States,

DANCER SLAIN

Russian Girl, 27, Attacked On Los Angeles Campus.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Ayna Sosayera, 27-year-old Russian dancer, died early today after she gasped "someone hit me on the head" and collapsed on the Los Angeles city college campus.

Detective Lieut. William Clark said she had been criminally attacked as she returned to her nearby apartment from a night dramatics class at the college.

Clark said Wally Meyers, a classmate of Miss Sosayera, reported the girl stumbled toward him, gasped "someone hit me on the head," but collapsed before she could describe her assailant.

Police said preliminary questioning of Meyers gave no hint of the identity of the girl's assailant and no description of what occurred. Clark attributed Miss Sosayera's death to a fractured skull.

"I Suffered In a German Concentration Camp"

Man Penned Up for Two Years In German Horror Camp Tells Dramatic Story Of Brutalities and Injustices

Describes Shooting of Inmates at 'Death Line.'

EDITOR'S NOTE: A man who read an anti-Nazi newspaper, suffered the tortures of a German concentration camp—and escaped after two years—writes graphically of his experiences in a series of four exclusive articles for Central Press and The News-Journal. This is the first story.

By CARL HARDER
(Escaped Prisoner From German Concentration Camp.)

ERIE, Pa.—What IS a German concentration camp?

It is located in a desolate region where there is no nearby habitation. A rutty dirt road leads to the camp. Before seeing anything of it, you are confronted with a large sign: "STOP! Not a step farther! Violation will result in sharp shooting!" This, then, is the end of the road, and the end of the world!

The whole district is surrounded by strong barbed wire fences. Around the immediate camp are barricades, also of barbed wire, so closely and tightly strung that not even a rabbit could get through. Farther on there are more barricades interwoven with live wire of high voltage. Guards are posted at intervals, ready to shoot.

The Death Line!

Now we are in the camp! A conspicuous white line—like a traffic line—runs parallel to the last row of barricades. That is the DEATH LINE. If a prisoner knowingly or unknowingly steps across this white line, the machine guns, stationed on special tower-like structures, cut loose, and there will be another victim, bullet ridden! The cause of his death is registered as "shot in the attempt to escape."

It is not infrequent that guards throw tools over that line, ordering prisoners to get them! If they refuse, they face horrible punishment for disobedience. If they comply with the command, thinking that the order is carried out in broad daylight and in full view of the guards, they are shot down like mad dogs. That is one method of getting rid of prisoners with whom the Nazi authorities don't quite know what to do.

A German concentration camp in Dachau, near Munich . . . barbed wire, high voltage wire and guards cut off the hapless prisoner from the outside world.

The guards are mostly young men, between the ages of 20 and 30. The houses in which they live are built of brick and wood. They are well constructed and comfortably furnished. But the prisoners have quite a different environment. They are herded together in large barracks, crudely built, with concrete floors.

One building houses about 50 men; two rooms serve as sleeping quarters for 25 men each. Another room, furnished with crude wooden benches and tables, might be called "the living room."

From All Professions.

Who is in the concentration camps? Most of the prisoners are not ordinary people, but professional men. All occupations are

Beightler Bares Charges In Dismissal of Fletcher

State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler today listed the instances of political activity he used as a basis for discharging Arthur Fletcher, Mansfield, from his position as highway maintenance superintendent in Richland county.

A United Press dispatch to The News-Journal said Beightler accused Fletcher of misfeasance, malfeasance, nonfeasance, neglect of duty and solicitation of campaign funds.

Fletcher revealed earlier in the week that he had been dismissed, effective today, and said he would appeal the dismissal to the state civil service commission. The United Press reported that no appeal had been filed today, however. Fletcher could not be reached today for comment on Beightler's charges.

Beightler charged in his removal order that Fletcher had solocited $10 from Roy Finney and $6 from Darrel W. Lape, both highway employes and had instructed them to pay it to Curtis Ford.

Ford is a clerk in the maintenance office. Finney and Lape were discharged in the recent wholesale dismissal of workers in the department by the state director.

Beightler also charged that Fletcher had given William Gremling, an employe of the department, a two-weeks "vacation" to campaign for Ex-governor Martin L. Davey before the primary election last August. Fletcher was also accused of requesting Finney and Lape to obtain signatures for a candidate's petition before the primary.

Richard Bewley, another worker who was dismissed, Carl Reed, a truck driver in the department, and Bewley were instructed to transport persons from Columbus to Richland county to solicit votes from old age pensioners, Beightler's charge said.

Fletcher had held the superintendency for two years under a civil service appointment. He received $2,400 a year. No successor has been named to succeed him.

NEW YORK—(AP)—John L. Lewis, CIO head, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today announced they had received a letter from President Roosevelt urging them to effect peace within the labor movement, but neither would discuss the contents:

"Quite definitely, I'll have nothing to say later today," said Lewis.

"I expect to make a formal statement later this afternoon," said Green.

Green denied that he and Lewis had met on matters of peace.

"I haven't seen Mr. Lewis in more than a year," said the AFL leader. "I don't know where he is."

DISMISSES CASE, LASHES POLICE

Judge Criticizes 'Laxity' In Preparing Evidence For Court Prosecution.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch today charged the Mansfield police department with laxity in drawing charges and preparing evidence as he commented on the dismissal yesterday afternoon of the case of Russell Tappan, 219 South Mulberry street, charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

The judge dismissed the case for lack of evidence. Tappan had been accused of driving the car which struck Howard Fox, 268 Harker street, as he alighted from his machine on West First street, on Feb. 4.

In the trial yesterday that lasted for four hours, eight witnesses were heard. Six were called to the stand by the prosecution. Tappan and his mother, Mrs. Grace Tappan were called by the defense, handled by Attorney Joseph Bayer.

Both Tappan and his mother testified that he was at home in bed at the time the accident had occurred.

Fox told the court that he obtained the license number of the machine as it drove away after striking him. Mrs. Fox said that

New Ashland Judge Wars On 'Promiscuous' Divorce Suits

ASHLAND—In office less than three weeks, Judge H. E. Culbertson of the Ashland common pleas court, today opened a one-man campaign against the promiscuous filing of divorce petitions in Ashland county.

Speaking from the bench this morning as he heard a citation in a non-support case, Judge Culbertson declared that "the divorce situation in Ashland county had to stop."

"There are entirely too many divorces and people are running to the divorce courts too often to settle their domestic troubles," the judge said. "Too many people have looked upon divorces as a means to end their domestic difficulties."

Judge Culbertson warned that from now on when people come to his court for a divorce and he discovers that petty quarreling is the reason for the action, and when he thinks it proper, he will send the couple to jail for a while to "cool off" and then send them home.

"This thing of divorces in families of four or five children also has to stop," he added. "In many cases mothers fail to provide the right kind of a home for their family, and the fathers fail to provide for them.

"I am sick and tired of the number of divorce cases I have had to hear since taking over this office."

Judge Culbertson said that in the future if he finds perjury in divorce testimony he will impose penitentiary sentences.

He was elected last fall and took office Feb. 9. He succeeded Judge C. C. Chapman.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The case of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines, accused of peddling political protection to the $20,000,000-a-year Harlem policy racket built up by the late Dutch Schultz, went to the jury today.

The jurors, 12 brokers, bankers and businessmen, retired after hearing final charges from Judge Charles C. Nott, jr.

The 62-year-old, white-haired defendant—an ex-blacksmith who for more than two decades has been one of the most powerful chieftains in Tammany — would face a possible maximum penalty of 27 years if convicted.

The most important political figure brought to trial in New York City for many years, he was indicted on 13 counts—a misdemeanor charge of conspiracy and 12 felony charges of contriving a lottery.

2-Hour Hearing Fails To End School Merger Controversy

A two-year controversy over the proposed consolidation of three rural school districts in northern Richland county was still unsettled today following a two-hour hearing at the courthouse.

Nearly 100 residents of Butler, Bloominggrove, Weller and Franklin townships attended the session in common pleas court room, with the Butler township delegation providing major opposition to the proposal as in the past.

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, said the hearing provided "a better understanding of the consolidation plan," but added that the county board probably would take no action on the consolidation until its March meeting.

Today's hearing, called by the county board of education, was adjourned at 1 p. m. because of the county basketball tournament this afternoon.

It was the protests of the Butler township delegation a month ago that caused the county board to postpone a decision on the matter until today. The Butler township board and patrons in the district have waged a two-year battle to keep their school at Adario, opposing any move to consolidate it with another district.

The county board's proposal calls for merging of the Butler and Bloominggrove township districts with the Union district which includes Weller and Franklin townships.

U. S. Weighs Hopkins Bid To Business

Administration Out to Promote Recovery, Secretary Says.

(By Associated Press)

DES MOINES—American business men today studied an invitation from Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins for labor, agriculture and business to join government "on the same side of the table" and work out the nation's economic problems.

In a speech filled with references to "free enterprise," "private investment" and "business confidence," the secretary last night asserted the national administration was out to promote recovery "with all the vigor and power at its command."

"The government earnestly wishes that these things (recovery) be accomplished, and we ask that labor, the farmer and business men join us not across, but on the same side of the table to accomplish our common purpose," Hopkins asserted.

First comment from business circles indicated a favorable reaction in general, to the speech. However, there were some who softened their appraisal of his plans with a suggestion that business wait for a practical demonstration of his program.

Hopkins first formal address since joining President Roosevelt's cabinet was made in a business setting. He was introduced to a Des Moines Economic club dinner by B. F. Kauffman, president of a bank here. On the other side of the speaker sat W. A. Harriman of Harriman, N. Y., chairman of the Union Pacific railroad board of directors and chairman of the business advisory council for the department of commerce.

Harriman said the speech "should be encouraging to everyone responsible for the conduct of business." He predicted Hopkins will be "the greatest secretary of commerce we ever had."

Carlisle said the secretary's comment on utilities "clearly indicates a desire on the part of the administration to remove doubt . . . as to the competitive fields of public ownership and op-

CONSERVANCY CLERK FIRED, AUDIT OPENS

Prosecutor Says Preliminary Examination Shows $1,700 Discrepancy In Books.

SECOND HERE IN 2 MONTHS

Kolb Closes City Conservancy Office, to Name Successor To Erdenberger.

R. K. Erdenberger, Mansfield conservancy district tax collector, was dismissed by County Treasurer John Kolb today, as a special state examiner began an audit of conservancy district tax books.

Prosecutor G. W. Marriott stated flatly today that a shortage in Erdenberger's accounts had been uncovered and said preliminary investigation showed a discrepancy of $1,700. The total may go higher than that, he said.

Second Special Audit Here.

The special audit, started today by State Examiner Irving Young, was the second in the county in the past two months. A recheck of the municipal court books recently showed shortages there amounting to $4,259.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb, who appointed Erdenberger to the office in September, 1935, said the deputy had been "temporarily dismissed." The conservancy office in the basement of the courthouse was closed about 10 a. m. today by the treasurer who said it would be re-opened early next week after he names another deputy.

Taxpayers Protest.

The discrepancy, which county authorities said went back as far as 1936, was uncovered two days ago when statements for the year's conservancy tax were mailed to property owners in Mansfield and Madison township.

A number of taxpayers protested to the treasurer, it was understood, when they received bills for taxes which they said they had paid. The complaints would indicate, authorities said, that payments were not credited on the books.

While Young, the examiner, was silent it was understood that he will question several property owners who protested to the treasurer that they were billed for taxes they already had paid.

Kolb declined to comment on the shortage, asserting that he had "turned all the information over to the state." Kolb requested the special audit, the examiner arriving in Mansfield late yesterday afternoon.

The treasurer's office was closed for an hour this morning while Young made a hurried

UP TO FIREMEN

Opening of Fire Plugs Must Be OK'd by Chief, Nist Says.

Opening of fire hydrants in the future by any municipal employe or WPA worker will be done under the supervision of the fire department, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said today.

Nist issued orders to all city departments and WPA that they were to obtain permission from Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger to use any hydrants. The order followed a second conference with the fire chief, Nist said, at which Seeburger complained that city workers and WPA were using pipe wrenches on the hydrant valves.

Seeburger pointed out that inspection of hydrants in the past two days revealed that two were found in the downtown district in need of repairs because the proper tool had not been used on the valve.

Lutz received a deep cut on his upper lip and a bruised knee in the crash which occurred Tuesday while he was en route home from Columbus. Two stitches were required to close the wound in his lip.

The legislator said that because of the ice he had to choose between driving his car into a train at a grade crossing or into a pole and he chose the pole as the safer.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

BEGINNING OF LENT CURTAILS ACTIVITIES

Fewer Private Parties Planned; Many Clubs Drop Social Affairs; Musicale Tea, Several Dinners, Church Meetings of Interest.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

WITH the first full week of Lent now before us, we find considerable curtailment of the social side of club meetings, and many Mansfield women are occupied with matters of religious nature these days. Nevertheless a variety of interesting affairs have been scheduled, and many people will be entertained at club functions and social events as March, in traditional manner, comes in like either lion or lamb.

Tomorrow afternoon one of the most outstanding parties in club circles is the elaborate musicale tea which members of the Business and Professional Women's club give at the Mansfield - Leland hotel. The tea, which begins at 4 p. m., is being presented by the glee club with the assistance of S. K. Jorgensen and Miss Charlet Cellars.

Looking Over the Week's Calendar.

Nearly every member of the organization is busy today on one of the committees, and tomorrow afternoon the ballroom will be filled with guests who come to hear a chorus of voices supported by two Mansfield musicians. Miss Myrtle Booth is the director, and Minnie Marks Cahall will accompany the glee club, while Mrs. R. V. Myers accompanies Mr. Jorgensen.

Monday.

One of the largest patriotic programs given each year is the family dinner honoring both Washington and Lincoln which the Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40, Daughters of Union Veterans have planned for Monday. The affair, which will be held at the Memorial building, will be followed by a meeting of the order.

The same night members of Naomi Shrine will celebrate their 26th anniversary by entertaining members of the Marion patrol, and the past high priestesses, with a program following a meeting. Because of the special meeting Monday night there will be no afternoon program, and no supper at the temple.

Other plans for Monday include the meeting of the Little Flower Study club at the home of Mrs. L. J. Smith on West Fourth street, the session of Delta Theta Tau girls at the Southern hotel, the Delta Kappa Gamma gathering at Miss Reba Robinson's on South Foster street, the Letter Carriers Auxiliary session at Mrs. Clifford Palmer's on Wood street, and the gathering of the United Presbyterian church guild in the church.

Tuesday.

Several study groups and two sororities have claimed Tuesday night for their meetings this week, as programs and plans for spring events come to the fore. Mrs. William Riester will hostess Child Study club members at her Gibson avenue home, in the evening, and during the afternoon Tuesday Book club members will have a session with Mrs. W. Herbert Rusk at the Women's Club.

Fortnight members will gather at the Club too, when Miss Emma Waring serves as hostess. Cards will be the diversion of the evening, as the club tournament is continued at the Bird building when Joan of Arc circle, Daughters of Isabella meet the same night.

While Miss Barbara Keene, Sherman avenue, is being hostess to Beta Sigma Phi sorority sisters, Chi Sigma members will meet at the Mansfield-Leland hotel for a business session. Among the social groups to gather are the Larkinites club, the M. O. B. club, the May-Be club, the Tuesday night club, the Pinochle club and the Valencia club.

The Earnest Workers class from the Park Avenue Baptist church are scheduled to have a session with Mrs. W. K. Dise, 334 South Main street, Tuesday night. Mrs. B. F. Hagelbarger, West Third, will entertain for the Ruth Circle class of the First Christian church.

Wednesday.

A few major clubs have chosen Wednesday for their meeting. The Nomad club will gather with Mrs. Louis Meisse at the Mansfield-Leland hotel for their session, and Junior Sorosis members will meet with Miss Alice McNamara, Park avenue west, in the evening.

A routine meeting of Auxiliary No. 100, Sons of Union Veterans is set for Memorial hall, and Mrs. O. M. Newton, Saxton road, will be welcoming members of the problem of the month study group to her home. Welfare work will be carried on by the E. L. K. Sewing circle at the regular luncheon meeting at the Women's Club with Mrs. William Switzer in charge.

Church groups planning meetings are the St. John's guild and the Senior Young Peoples' society of the same church, the Findley-Anderson Bible class, and the Otterbein guild: The Bible class of the United Presbyterian church has planned an indoor winter picnic at North Lake park for this meeting. Findley-Anderson class members in charge of arrangements are Mrs. James Boyd, Mrs. George Rusk, Mrs. Etha Mead, Miss Helen Brown.

Other meetings set for March 1 are those of the Ruth-Naomi Bible Study club, the Bowman Street Mothers club, the Wooden Shoe Euchre club, the Friendly Neighbors club, Cyane club, Golden Link club, Miriam Rebekah lodge, and the Liberty Park auxiliary.

Thursday.

The first Thursday in the month rolls around again, and with it brings scheduled sessions of a number of church organizations. In mid-morning the two missionary societies of the Central M. E. church will gather, and have regular meetings, and a program with a noon luncheon.

Women of the societies of the First M. E. church wil gather for a devotional period at 3:15 followed by the meetings and then supper. When members of Circle Three of the First Presbyterian church meet for a covered-dish luncheon at the church they will be paying for their luncheon in pennies. Each member will pay as many pennies as she is years old for her luncheon. The committee, which includes Mrs. Harvey Lanehart and Mrs. J. H. Bristor, will serve dessert, and the members will furnish the hot dishes, sandwiches and table service. Employed members are also being urged to attend this luncheon.

Mrs. W. P. Spencer, Mrs. W. J. Bishop and Mrs. Walter Williams are in charge of the session for Circle Two, while Mrs. E. F. Malone, South Main street, will receive Circle Five.

While many of the Mansfield women are busy with church gatherings, members of the Federation will be over at the Ohio theater hearing Frank Speaight talk on "Dickens Humor." The lecture will start at 11 a. m., and will be followed by a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Women's Club.

Women's Association members from the First Congregational church will have a tea in the church parlors in the afternoon, and Mrs. David Shelley is in charge. Two sororities — Beta Kappa Tau and Sigma Kappa Gamma—will meet Thursday evening, and several of the card clubs are also planning sessions.

Friday.

The end of the week will be light of activities, few clubs having scheduled any affairs. Members of Jared Mansfield chapter of the D. A. R. will be the guests of Mrs. George Hughes, 42 Sherman avenue. The group will have a 6:30 p. m. birthday dinner, and Mrs. Hughes will be helped by Miss Mollie Rhodes, Mrs. L. C. Henry, Mrs. Lamar Goard, Mrs. Thomas Scott, Mrs. LeRoy Wittemire, Miss Henrietta Frank, and the Misses Abigail and Lona Swineford.

Mrs. Foster Stough will be hostess at her home on East Second street to members of the Lucretia Hedges Missionary society from the First M. E. church. The same day the G. M. D. class of St. Mark's will meet with Miss Anna Horvath, and the Ladies' Bible class of the Mayflower church will be entertained by Miss Bertha Zudwitz, and Miss Lena Ziegenfus.

Priscillian club members will be entertained by Mrs. J. D. Scott, and Mrs. W. F. Beam will be hostess for the meeting of the Woodville Social club. There will be a session of the T. J. N. club with Miss Elaine Logas, Bowman street, and the Daughters of Scotland will gather at North Lake park pavilion. Mrs. J. R. Turner will welcome members of the Neighborhood Bible club during the afternoon.

When I wrote several paragraphs back that week-end club events would be light, I didn't know that two exciting matters would come to my attention before all of Saturday's copy had been written.

This morning the news was received that University club members will conduct their semi-annual stag dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Friday night. Guest speaker is Art Lewis, graduate of Ohio University, and collegiate and professional football player. Lewis coached the Cleveland Rams last season.

During the meeting three new directors will be elected, and a group of football films will be shown, and added entertainment will be featured. Dinner is set for 7 p. m.

And the other event is the program to be given before all members and guests of the Poetry guild when Mrs. R. O. Scott entertains Friday at her home, 21 Hammond avenue. The program will include piano selections by Miss Genevieve Howell, followed by Mrs. Herbert Linham who will give the biography of Edna St. Vincent Millay. Mrs. Scott will sing, and a specialty routine is to be given by Joan Scott and Helen Comisford.

Saturday.

The only two affairs scheduled for Saturday are the meeting of the Fireside club with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Copeland in Lincoln Heights, and the Puenta club session with Mr. and Mrs. George Bergman on Rowland avenue.

So until next week, goodbye.

Mansfield Man Takes Bride In Ceremony at West Palm Beach

WORD has just been received in Mansfield of the marriage on Feb. 5 of Miss Lenora Evelyn Martin, West Palm Beach, Fla., to James Peter Keith of Mansfield. The ceremony was performed at the First Baptist church in that city with Dr. C. H. Bolton officiating.

The service was read before the altar of the church which was decorated with palms, gladioli, and assorted cut flowers. Preceding the ceremony Lillian Gillis, organist, played "Romanza" by E. B. Nevin and "Because" by G. D. Hordelot. Hansford Dicken sang "O' Promise Me" by R. DeRoven and "I Love You Truly" by C. J. Bond.

Mr. Keith, who was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school in 1926, received his degree from Oberlin college at Oberlin, and is now a horticulturist.

The bride attended Palm Beach high school and Judson college, at Marion, Ala.

While the candles were being lighted by the Misses Laura Clahoun and Ellen Morgan, who were dressed in full-length aqua taffeta gowns with old-fashioned hats of matching ribbon and corsages of yellow roses, the organist played "At Dawning" by Cadman and during the ceremony "To A Wild Rose" was softly played.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Ailene Wills and Miss Lola Pollard, wore gowns of dusty rose tafetta with hats of matching ribbon and shower bouquets of Talisman roses. The maid of honor, Miss Vivian Martin, sister of the bride was attired in a full length dress of yellow, with matching ribbon hat and a shower bouquet of yellow roses.

The bride wore a gown of slipper satin made with a girdle fitted waist effect and high neckline ending in a Queen Elizabeth collar. The fingertip veil was arranged in a bonnet style fringed with tulle, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Floyd Nelson was best man, and ushers were Richard Sparks, Seaborn McCrory, of Miami, Robert Johnson, and W. O. Petty. The bride's brother, Lonzo Martin, gave her in marriage.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the bride's home with Marion Fifield, Miss Frances Hilsheimer and Mrs. H. R. Brock assisting.

Mr. Keith, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Keith, Park avenue west road, is now at home with his bride in West Palm Beach. He is a nephew of B. B. Keith of West Fifth street. The bridegroom's parents, who are expected to return to Mansfield soon, attended the ceremony. Although no definite plans have yet been announced, it is expected that Mr. and Mrs. James Peter Keith will return to Mansfield at a later date, friends said today.

MARCH 18 CHOSEN AS DATE FOR MARRIAGE

Miss Martha Fichter Will Become Bride of George H. Bender at Ceremony to Be Read In Lakewood By Former Mansfield Pastor.

Because the given names of the couple are the same as those of George and Martha Washington, a patriotic theme was carried out during the evening. The guests were seated at one long table for the dessert-bridge, and when they lifted the crown from the tiny tri-corn hats, which were the place favors, they discovered the wedding date inside. A little poem about "Martha and George" revealed that they will be married on March 18.

The couple will be married at the Detroit Avenue Methodist Episcopal church in Lakewood. Rev. Melvin C. Hunt, who was formerly pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church in Mansfield, will perform the ceremony. Miss Fichter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fichter, 65 Heineman boulevard. Mr. Bender is the son of Mrs. Henry Bender of Cleveland.

Get After Double Chin

By MME. QUI VIVE

One of the penalties for partaking too freely of the good things of the table is an extra chin for which you have no use whatsoever. It is a beauty ill which even the strongest among us cannot bear with patience and fortitude.

If you have spotted a cross line just under the jaw, do not delay. Every night after washing your countenance with pure soap and warm water, rinse with tepid water, dry thoroughly and get to work with the massage cream. Select an emollient that is heavy enough to give resistance to the fingers.

Begin at the top of the throat, pick up the flesh in little patches and roll it firmly between the fingers. This rolling movement dissolves the fat cells. Don't be rough, don't bruise the skin. Work upward to the point of the chin, skipping up either side. Give a few pinches along the jaw line. Three minutes of that.

Get an ice cube and apply it briskly, always with an upward movement and while the cream is still on. This system of refrigeration is necessary if you are to ward off flabbines which is as disfiguring as fullness.

In the morning, bathe the face with cold water, dry it and apply an astringent made by combining one ounce of witch hazel, one-half ounce of powdered boric acid, and one half pint of camphor water.

While the astringent is drying drop the head back, clasp the fingers together at the back of the neck, use the thumbs to caress the throat, also sweeping them just under the jaw line up toward the ears. Your purpose is to strengthen the fibers thereabouts. If you can spare the time, use the ice again.

When shirring cloth, lengthen the stitch on your machine and use ruled writing paper and stitch over. The rows will then be even.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I don't know where I got the courage to withstand that terrified plea of my nurse," Philip Veritzen's deep voice went on. "Perhaps there was stirring within me the blood of which my father had boasted when he had said that the men of his line did not break promises. But all I knew was that I balked at the word 'never,' sensed that somewhere, sometime, I might have to break such a promise, and therefore must not make it.

"'I'll promise you that I won't ever use that word unless sometime I might have to,' I told her, and I saw something queer flash over her face. And then she was suddenly kneeling at my feet and kissing my hand reverently as I had seen her kiss my mother's.

"'My poor laddies!" she said, and child as I was, I felt the incongruous contrast between her gesture and her words. I felt vaguely also that she was almost mad with terror lest I never come back to her from my visit to the king.

"But, curiously enough, all my childish fear had left me with my denial of her plea. I think I bade good-bye to my childhood in that minute, and put my memories of my mother into a locked compartment of my soul, to be brought out only when I was alone.

"I squared my shoulders and tugged at my nurse's hand.

"'Get up!' I said with an authority I never had used on her, 'and call the man who is to take me to the king. I must not keep him waiting.'

"She obeyed me quickly and quietly, and in another minute I was walking beside a tall officer of the guard, down a winding passage to a room which I later learned had been hastily prepared for the king's occupancy.

"The officer stopped at the door of the room, and I felt his hand pressing my shoulder in kindly fashion. I learned later, for he was my mentor, my closest — my only—friend, for all the years of my childhood and afterward, that he had been my father's best friend, and was one of the few persons officially in the secret of my birth. My very existence had been kept so hidden that, while many surmised, only a handful ever know who I really was.

"There was only one person, a man, in the room into which the officer gently pushed me, closing the door immediately after me, and I almost cried out as I saw him standing beside a table at the farther end of the room. He was so like my father that for an instant I thought I was seeing him again, and I looked wildly around for my mother.

"But only for a flashing instant did the illusion last. Then the man spoke, and I knew that it was my uncle, not his brother, who stood watching me so steadfastly.

"'Come here,' he said.

"I obeyed him, and felt his eyes watching me as I crossed the space, not long, for the room was small, but which seemed interminable, till I reached a spot directly in front of him. Then I lifted my eyes to him, and he spoke, peremptorily, yet with a certain kindness in his voice.

"'Do you know who I am?' he asked."

Potato Pancakes make a dish dear to the menfolk, so serve it right soon. This recipe calls for three cups grated raw potatoes, one and one-half tablespoons flour, teaspoon salt, red pepper, two well-beaten eggs, one-eighth teaspoon baking powder and one-half teaspoon nutmeg. Peel potatoes and soak in cold water several hours before grating. Drain thoroughly and add the beaten eggs, mixing in lightly. Stir in the nutmeg, salt and the baking powder. Make small pancakes and serve hot with sour cream garnished with red pepper.

Many people get out and prune during March, but if you do, just remember these general rules; that any pruning done during the late Winter or Spring months reduces the quantity of flowers and an ornamental plant is rarely oversupplied with flowers. So the best time to prune Spring flowering shrubs and treee is immediately after the flowers have matured, doing it if possible within two or three weeks after the flowers have mtaured.

Rock ammonia, dissolved in boiling water, is excellent for removing moths from carpets. Use four ounces of the ammonia to every quart of water. Apply with a flannel, then go over the material with a very hot iron.

Don't peel rhubarb before it is cooked. The red skin gives it an attractive color.

Whenever possible add flavoring extracts to a food when it is cool. If the food is hot, much of the flavoring will vanish in steam. This does not apply to baked foods, however.

Attacks Child Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Do you remember the ladylike shrieks and gavel poundings that went up from women's clubs all over these United States when Katherine Mayo wrote "Mother India"? No such outrageous state of affairs could prevail in this fair country, we smugly assured ourselves. Imagine child brides of ten, eleven and twelve—the idea was horrendous.

Well, my dear fellow members of all and sundry women's clubs, we seem to be doing almost as badly as India.

Our nerves were properly shocked a few days ago, when we read that a 12-year-old girl was not expected to live, in giving birth to a baby. Her husband is 24. And the Chicago courts proposed an arrangement whereby the girl would not live with her husband, an unemployed laborer, until she was 16 years of age. Meanwhile, the birth of the baby threatened her life.

And probably we all remember the case of the little girl of 11, who married an old gentleman of 64, because she wanted to live in a "palace." She took her doll along to her new home, but wasn't happy. Back and forth she's gone several times since, from the old gentlemen's "palace" to her own family's "be it ever so humble."

Just before Elkton, Md., shut down on its whirlwind marriages, a 13-year-old high school freshman, the former Frances Erb, went along with her older sister Miriam, aged 17, to act as bridesmaid in the ceremony which united Miriam and Martin Nace, 25 years old, an employee in a pants factory. Accompanying them just for the ride was 21-year-old Robert Souder. And with marriage in the air, he asked 13-year-old Frances to be his bride, and the clergyman agreed to accommodate.

When the 13-year-old bride went back to her school, dismissal charges were heard, and it's understood the groom is worrying about his WPA job.

The most surprising case of child marriage comes from Sneedville, Tenn., where a little girl named Eunice Winstead was married at the age of 9 to Charlie Johns, then 22. At her present age of 11, the child has now been married for two years. She has not yet learned how to read or write, though when she married it was understood she'd have to go to school. Said the mountaineer husband last week: "I don't see no need of her going to school. She ain't goin' to no school as long as I have my way."

There's a dash of in-law trouble in this romance, too. Charley promised Eunice's parents to give her a home of her own when they married, but according to his mother-in-law "he's still diggin' at the basement."

At one of her recent press conferences, Mrs. Roosevelt put forward a very modest program necessary to good citizenship. She thinks people should have enough to eat, a decent place to live, a sufficient amount of education, and sources of information for them to understand the workings of government.

Without question our illiteracy quotient has decreased since the World war, when it had reached the alarming figure of 25 per cent. This included people who could read and write their own language, but not English. Since then illiteracy has decreased but not to the degree it should have decreased in this country.

Why can't we club-women work for better laws? Is it necessary to play quite so much bridge? At women's luncheons, the talk invariably turns on diet and exercise. "What do you do to keep a slender figure?" That's the real question of the day! And we have child brides and illiteracy. Where is Nero and that old fiddle of his?

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, February 26.

Sunday's horoscope has auguries of some rather decisive and important activities, possibly in connection with clerical, legal or educational associations, rather than business of a commercial nature. In this direction there may be problems best solved by patience and steady work. The mind may be well stimulated in the direction of proper procedure. Social or sentimental affiliations seem to hint of intrigue or secrecy, although not sinister.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which there might be litigation or some mental problems, which may require much study, keen insight and sound judgment to arrive at satisfactory decisions. Private affairs are subtle, curious or intriguing, with happy or surprising denouements.

A child born on this day may have a steady and dependable character, realizing brilliant intellectual attainments which may place it in public life.

For Monday, February 27.

Monday's astrological forecast is a decidedly perplexing and contradictory one, with certain confusing issues requiring sound judgment and wise counsel of responsible friends or advisors. There may be legal or financial aspects, or lures to changes, which are hazardous. Let cool and sagacious means be used rather than tempestuous, impulsive and rash conduct. Be alert to fraud and deception.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which success depends on the wisdom of trustworthy friends, rather than their own uncertain and over-stimulated judgment. Calmness, steadiness and system win over rash, quarrelsome and passionate action. Be alert to deceit and fraud, and be prudent with all writings and papers.

A child born on thiss day may have a many-sided and complex nature, difficult to understand and handle. While impulsive, reckless and violent in some ways, it may use its fine mind and sturdy character in others. Its yearning for good education should be satisfied, as much good fortune may depend on that.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

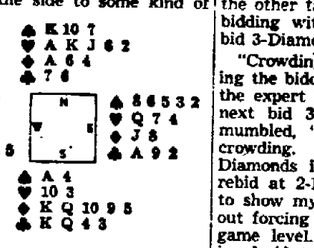

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CROWDING MAY BE WISE

Crowding the bidding is usually unsound, as it may result in getting your side beyond its depth before the best declaration is discovered.

But sometimes it is a wise thing to do, when you want to indicate that you have a lot of strength, and are definitely prepared to commit the side to some kind of a game, no matter what the later developments of the bidding may disclose.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

It is especially sound when you are thinking in terms of a possible slam.

The four players from one table of a team-of-four duplicate match had finished all of the deals and came over to watch this deal at the other table. North began the bidding with 1-Heart and South bid 3-Diamonds.

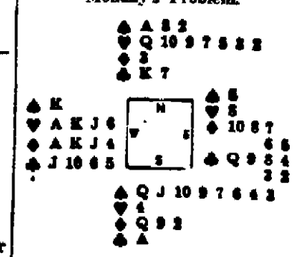

"Crowding the bidding, crowding the bidding," whispered one of the expert kibitzers. When North next bid 3-Hearts, the kibitzer mumbled, "Now South feels the crowding. Where I bid only 2-Diamonds in the South and you rebid at 2-Hearts, I could afford to show my clubs at three, without forcing us past the no trump game level. But this poor chap is afraid to show his clubs now, because it will have to be at four. Let's see what he does."

South, apparently unworried, bid 4-Diamonds and North jumped to 6-Diamonds. And the contract was made, for a big winning score, whereas the pair that had criticized the bidding had managed to make only 5-No trump.

At diamonds, the third heart round can be ruffed, setting up two hearts for club discards, whereas at no trump a trick is lost in clubs and another in hearts unless the declarer builds up a squeeze play on South's last diamond between a club in that hand and two spades in the North, but that can't be done if East leads spades both at the start and after he wins with the club A, as this East did.

Monday's Problem.

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If South opens this deal with 4-Spades, how should the course of bidding proceed?

My Neighbor Says:

Plant Johnny-Jump-Ups to fill in open spaces among perenials, Jersey Gem is a deep velvety violet and a constant bloomer. Apricot has soft salmon shades and Golden Yellow is somewhat brighter.

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1939.)

READ THIS FIRST:

Asked to leave her boarding house because she had no money to pay rent, Lona Ackerman finds herself stranded on a city street. That night the man who had taken Lona's room finds her on a park bench. He offers to treat her to something to eat. After telling him her father is in the penitentiary for murder, Lona learns the stranger's name is Jim Claridge. He obtains a hotel room for her and promises to call her next day. In view of her past experiences, Lona wonders about Jim, decides she can trust him.

CHAPTER FIVE

Next morning, as she dressed in the strange atmosphere of the hotel room in which she had spent the troubled night, Lona's curving red lips were hard and unsmiling. It was unthinkable, in the sane, revealing light of day, that she should be taking help from a strange man. Charity — from a stranger she had never seen before. Allowing him to pay for her roof. Just because he had found her broke, on a park bench. It couldn't go on!

When she was attired once more in the shabby blue suit that had been her daily garb for the eight months since she had left Ardmore's, she took the bill Jim Claridge had given her last night from her purse and looked at it. This was the last she would see of him, of course. She had been silly to think he meant what he said about meeting her today. He had been trying to be polite, had pitied her, and given her a handout as he would any tramp he might have found in the straits he found her.

Her head went up at the thought and she crumpled the bill back into her purse almost angrily. She'd have to use it, of course. There was nothing else to do. But she'd find work. She'd find work today. And then she'd pay it back to him, every cent. She wouldn't have him thinking she was a gold digger, a racketeer, perhaps, who earned a living working on men's sympathy. She could not bear even a stranger to believe anything like that of her.

Anxiously she scanned the list of "Help Wanted" ads in the morning paper. It was pitifully short. A maid was needed in the hospital, colored preferred . . . A girl for housework in the fashionable district . . . An extra saleslady for a few days' selling . . . Book sellers who would ask for a large deposit on a set of sample books nobody ever bought. She knew those kind! A garment factory wanted girls. There were only two calls for office workers. One was at a downtown address she remembered faintly in connection with her work at Ardmore's. The other was a strange name out in the factory district.

With the thoroughness learned of long practice she jotted down the list on a fresh sheet from the little notebook she carried in her purse. First the two office addresses, then the rest of the ads in the order of their appeal to her. The factory ad first, then the "saleslady wanted." Then came the housework; even the maid at the hospital was scribbled at the end. Anything was worth trying today. Anything!

She choked down a bit of breakfast in the hotel dining room, driven by a sense of urgency that had become habitual with her of late. Then, lugging her suitcase, she boarded an uptown car. The problem of a new boarding house must be met before evening. But she pushed it back into the corner of her mind as she deposited her luggage at the first department store checking counter she reached. Time for that later. She found herself walking with unreasonable haste as she strode on up the busy street toward the first address on her list.

"You're to come right in, dearie!" she beamed.

It was an imposing building into which she turned a few minutes later, and her heart sank a little as a flash of recognition came to her. The Allison Trust! No wonder it had seemed familiar when she read the ad. Melvin Hardy, who had succeeded old Stephen Ardmore at the Ardmore offices, was part of this firm. The stenographer who had taken her own job had been brought from here by Hardy, she remembered.

With her finger on the elevator bell, she hesitated, a shrinking feeling at the pit of her stomach. Was there any use applying here? Melvin Hardy would never allow her to work for him. When he had taken charge at Ardmore's, he had dismissed her the second week he was there.

He'd made a great speech about retrenching, and the depression making it regrettable that so many faithful employes must be dropped, but he hadn't fooled her. She'd known what was back ot it. The letter her father's lawyer had written old Stephen was still in the files. She had seen Hardy discover it when he went through them the first day.

After that the same speculative gleam had come to his beady eyes that had been in Tim Evans' after he had—found out about her. Then he'd gone the same route as the others. Not that he had openly made any advances to her. None of them did. But there had been that look she had come to dread growing ever stronger in his eyes. And he had taken to standing too close when he talked to her, and letting his hands touch hers—little things only he and she noticed. But when he had finally turned nasty and let her go, she knew. There were half a dozen girls who had come to Ardmore's after she had. And none of them better workers than she.

As the elevator door opened now, and she stepped into it, she set her chin defiantly, and squared her shoulders. After all, there was no reason why she should not apply for this job the same as any other girl. She had done nothing wrong. She marched resolutely across the corridor at the eighth floor and opened the door of the office marked "Allison Trust" before she could lose her courage.

Early as it was, the room was already lined with girls. Some were seated, the first comers probably. Others stood about watching each other furtively 'as people do who are after the same job.

It was a familiar scene to Lona. Day after day for the last eight months she had waited like this in countless such office rooms. Leaning against the painted wall, she looked about her listlessly. Now and then a frizzy-haired, gum-chewing personage with a pencil poised behind her ear would conduct one of the girls into the inner office, and the line would shift again in an unceasing effort to get nearest the door. An intermittent murmur of conversation stirred the air, jerky, commonplace comments upon the weather, the latest bank robbery, and the scarcity of work—the sort of talk in which strangers indulge when they are nervous and wish to appear cool.

Looking from one to the other, Lona found herself wondering what was really going on behind those tensed faces. Were they all as desperate, as panicky, as rudderless as she? Or were there some of them with homes — real homes——people who loved them, mothers and fathers? She winced at that and, swallowing a lump that rose in her throat, turned her face to the wall so the sudden tears in her eyes might not be noticed. "Daddy!" her heart had cried out, in a desperate pang of loneliness. "Oh, daddy!"

The next minute she was feeling for her handkerchief and scolding herself roundly. There was no use in outbursts like this. She had learned that long ago in the terrible months when it seemed she could never, never get used to the way life was treating her. Time and again back in Bridgewater, when she had been left to putter about in the old house alone, she had dropped the task she had been forcing herself to do, and had thrown herself on her bed in an agony of tears, the very fierceness of which, it seemed, must somehow break through the cloud of unhappiness that surrounded her.

They had been of no avail, those tears. It did no good to protest to a laughing fate. She couldn't stand it, she wouldn't stand it. There were things you HAD to stand, whether you were able to or not. She hadn't been long discovering that. And, because yielding to her grief had done no good, she had learned, somehow, to control it. Only sometimes, at moments like the present, it was hard, desperately hard, to be alone.

She was grateful and a little astonished, when the door of the inner office next swung open to see the beckoning hand of the frizzled blond point her way.

"Miss Ackerman?" the raspy voice flung at her, and before her hesitant nod was half completed, "You're to come right in, dearie!" she beamed.

"It's the boss's orders!" she flung over her shoulder, as a murmur of protest swept the room. "Can't help it if you were here first."

Wondering, Lona edged her way through the line to the door. "Are you sure—" she began. She was almost the last applicant to arrive. All these others had been here before her. Surely there must be a mistake . . . . "Who's doing the hiring?" she managed to whisper to the blond, her heart sinking.

"Hardy," the girl flung back. "Lucky break for you. He knows you. Saw you through the door and ordered me to drag you in."

Assembly Tackles Permanent Relief Bill Next Week

COMMITTEE TO MAP PLAN FOR REST OF YEAR

Senators, Representatives to Be Chosen For Intensive Study on Problem.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The relief problem, dismissed temporarily by the Ohio legislature when it made a five-month $5,000,000 appropriation two weeks ago, will attain prominence again next week.

The Republican leadership must tackle the job of drafting legislation to care for the indigent until the end of 1940. The legislature has voted to create a committee of five senators and five representatives to investigate relief conditions and prepare a program.

The members will be appointed early next week and are expected to go to work immediately, for they must report by April 1.

The committee is empowered to conduct hearings and to require the attendance of witnesses and the presentation of records. It has a $2,000 appropriation.

Late In Reporting.

None of the $5,000,000 has been allocated. Its distribution has been delayed because all the counties needing aid have not submitted reports.

Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said, however, that he would certify February needs of the counties early next week to the state emergency board, which holds the purse strings. Not more than $1,250,000 may be allocated for the month.

While the cities and counties are required to match state grants dollar for dollar with local funds, they are expected to encounter little difficulty in obtaining the February money. The legislature provided that their January expenditures and encumbrances would be considered as matching money.

To get March grants, however, the local governments must put up cash for matching. Many of them complained they could not do this.

The legislature is turning out bills designed to release, for matching, local funds now used for other purposes. Some of these bills are objectionable to the cities, particularly one authorizing the use of automobile license tag revenues for relief. This bill has been approved by a senate committee and is ready for a vote.

The administration's governmental reorganization bills will continue to receive considerable attention next week.

Senate leaders plan to concentrate on a measure to revamp the tax commission, hoping to have it passed Thursday. Another bill to reorganize the civil service commission is likely to be introduced in the senate with the approval of that branch's Republican leadership. Bills to accomplish the same purpose already have been introduced but are frowned upon by the administration's lieutenants in the senate.

TELLS OF LIFE IN NAZI CAMPS

Penned Up Like Animal For Two Years, Describes Brutality, Filth.

represented: doctors, lawyers, university professors, young teachers, former government employes, students, writers, editors, priests—mostly intellectuals who have had the audacity to think for themselves and who therefore are enemies of the state.

I was confined in a concentration camp for two years for reading an anti-Nazi newspaper.

Every prisoner wears a band around his sleeve which designates the cause of his being in the camp. Communists must wear red bands; Democrats red ones with a yellow circle in the centers; a blue one, with a red circle, marks a Jew; the Bible student wears a black one with a blue cross; priests get a black one with a white cross. Thus the guards can tell at a glance what kind of prisoner it is, and can vary the treatment accordingly.

The whole camp occupies a large territory—about 20 square miles. For the purpose of closer and better supervision it is divided into smaller units. But all camps are under one commander, who keeps in constant touch with headquarters of the secret police (Gestapo). The head of a concentration camp is, usually, also a high official in the Storm Troopers or of the S. S. (Secret Police).

Law and justice do not reach the concentration camp—there exist only the laws of force, of brutality, of inhumanity—meted out by the will of the individual in power. A concentration camp is a world by itself, cut off from without.

Upon entering a concentration camp each prisoner has to sign a statement to the effect that in case of his liberation, he will not give information about the camp, its inhabitants or its methods to anyone, orally or in written form. Heavy punishment would be the consequence of such an act. Everyone must sign. The few who actually leave a concentration camp are silent—for the reasons given.

Filth and Illness.

Sanitary conditions in the camps are simply unbelievable. There is no disinfectant for fighting parasites and vermin. No provisions are made for ventilation; only a small air hole is supposed to serve this purpose. These unhygienic conditions, combined with the miserable food, overwork and brutal treatment, cause many illnesses which are treated by the guards after their own fashion. Those with stomach disorders are denied all food until, compelled by hunger, they report once more as "ready for work!" Castor oil is the remedy for all other illness.

For some time Camp V had a doctor—but he escaped to Holland because, as he later stated in his book, he could "bear no longer the sight of poor human beings abused in every possible way."

As might be expected, the camp has no chapel, and there is no religious service, no spiritual consolation of any kind for those prisoners who are in need of it. Priests and ministers are in the camps—but they wear ribbons contemptuously marked with the white cross—they are prisoners, a tragic evidence of the fight which the third reich is waging against the churches of all creeds and beliefs.

Use Torches To Free Motorist Pinned Under Engine's Tender

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Thirty-seven men worked with acetylene torches and tools for more than an hour and a half today to release Brewster Jacoby, 25, from underneath a locomotive tender which had pinned him in his wrecked automobile.

"Hit me on the head; knock me out," Jacoby pleaded with his rescuers, who included firemen, police and railroad employes.

He was one of three passengers in an automobile struck by a New York Central passenger train near the Union terminal here early today. Authorities said the automobile's brakes failed as the crossing gates went down.

The driver, Arthur Richmond, 23, was thrown out of the car. Edward Emery, 22, was thrown 20 feet through the windshield as the train struck.

Jacoby tried to jump out but his left leg caught under the gearshift. He was helpless as the locomotive tender slowly chewed the car out from under him. When Engineer David Wilmot finally stopped the locomotive, Jacoby's legs were pinned between the tender and the wrecked motor of the car.

Rescuers had to burn away the entire front of the car and jack up the 35-ton tender. Dr. Edward J. Manley gave Jacoby narcotics to ease his pain while they worked.

His right leg was crushed and his left leg bruised and cut. Emery had cuts and brulses and Richmond scalp wounds.

More Snow Due Tonight, Mercury to Rise.

Snow and rising temperatures were forecast for the week-end after the mercury skidded to three degrees above zero in Mansfield last night.

The forecast said light snow tonight probably will bring an end to the current cold wave which has kept the mercury near zero for four consecutive nights.

Sunday is expected to bring warmer weather and rain or snow. The temperature rose to 28 degrees at noon today to equal yesterday's high. The average for the past 24 hours was 15 degrees below normal.

State forecasters predicted there would be no more zero weather this winter when the current frigid wave moves eastward.

A Farmer's Diary

Moonlight Tragedy.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ONE moonlit winter night, while traveling through the swamp below our farm, I saw some tracks I had not seen before. They were larger and longer than those the weasel makes, nor was the gait the same. Sometimes the rear and front tracks seemed farther apart. I noticed where the furry tail dragged lightly in the fluffy snow. I followed cautiously, for I thought perhaps I was about to discover an animal few had ever seen—perhaps I might even by called upon to christen the brute.

Suddenly, out of the night silence, I heard a slight squeak and the sound of labored scuffling. Just beyond a bush, I saw what looked like one divided ball of fur move furiously about. The soft snow rose in little sprays above. The moonbeams glistened on the whitened form, the crisp cold air seemed tense.

I slipped up closer, until I reached the little sprawling bush that stood so gallantly between me and that quivering, pawing beast, But when I got down on my hands and knees and peered. I saw to my amazement it was not one struggling animal, but two, of slightly different color.

The larger animal was long and slender, with heavy-clawed hind and fore paws which he was using at a rapid rate. He had short ears, evil eyes, long whiskers and a satanic looking mouth, that bit and clawed relentlessly. They rolled back and forth, with strangle hold, battling to the death. Their very anger seemed to lend them strength.

Then, with one heavy toss of his hind feet, the smaller fighter was thrown in my direction, and I saw it was my well-known friend, the muskrat, playing a more dangerous role than I had known members of his family to attempt. My sympathies were with him.

I walked out into the open, and tardily the larger animal ceased his deadly strokes and ran slowly down the bank. The muskrat lay, almost lifeless, in a heap. There was blood upon the snow. The mink, that bold marauder of the night, had found his prey.

POLICE ASKED TO FIND WOMAN

Sister In Baltimore Says Her Mother's Near Death.

Police today were asked by relatives in Baltimore, Md. to search for a young woman believed to be living in Mansfield, whose mother is near death.

A letter from Mrs. Georgianna Shank, 115 South Callington avenue, Baltimore, requests police to locate the writer's sister, Agnes Von Bergen, who left her home there three months ago.

Mrs. Shank said she had received a letter from her sister some time ago which told of her recent marriage in Mansfield but that her sister failed to give her married name.

She said the girl's mother had been involved in an automobile accident and was seriously injured.

Jury Finds Son Not Guilty In Scheme Involving Father.

RENSSELAER, Ind. — (AP) — Ralph Myers, 45-year-old World war veteran, stood acquitted today on a charge he plotted to kill his wealthy, 73-year-old father, George, for $700 last December.

A jury of 11 farmers and a housewife deliberated only four and a half hours last night before freeing Myers of a charge of conspiracy to commit a felony.

State Policemen Fremont Lemler and James Bartell testified they had been "tipped" that Myers wanted his father done away with and was willing to pay for it.

Myers and his father had been estranged. The father, reported to be worth more than $100,000, died of heart disease Jan. 18 in Bradenton, Fla.

FIGHTS THEFT CHARGE, GETS PRISON TERM

Norwalk Man Begins 1 to 15 Year Sentence; Pals Pleaded Guilty, on Probation.

Harold Courts, 33, of Norwalk, who pleaded innocent to a grand jury indictment accusing him of the theft of clover seed, was on his way to the Ohio penitentiary today, while his two companions, who pleaded guilty to the same offense, were free on probation.

Found guilty by a jury late yesterday in Richland county common pleas court, Courts was sentenced to one-to-15 years in the pen by Judge C. H. Huston, who released two others in the same case as a reward for telling the truth."

Before Judge Huston sentenced Courts, Sam Anderson, 56, Mansfield, who was to have gone on trial next on an indictment for blackmail, changed his plea to guilty and was put on probation for 3 years.

The pair who escaped sentence by confessing their part in the clover seed theft were John Bell, 25, and Lavern Huber, 30, both of Norwalk. They had been free under bond since the grand jury returned indictments a month ago. The pair testified against Courts during the trial.

Trio Involved In Theft.

All members of the trio were involved to the same extent in the theft on Jan. 9 of 14 bushels of clover seed valued at $108 from the Dr. C. S. Sauers farm southeast of Adario, testimony revealed.

Judge Huston said he placed Huber and Bell on probation because they told the truth about the case and saved the county the expense of a trial.

Courts was convicted after the jury deliberated only 45 minutes.

Anderson, who was indicted after he testified before the grand jury in January, admitted that he accepted $61 from the parents of Jay and Merlin Hunter of Adario for "protection" from prosecution.

The youths confessed they assaulted Anderson and took his clothing. They were placed on probation.

Convicted of contempt of court, Raymond Botterf, Mansfield, was sentenced to five week-ends in jail yesterday afternoon by Judge Huston.

Botterf, who was cited for failing to comply with a court order to provide for his minor child, was ordered to pay $25 immediately for support of the child. He will begin his jail sentence today.

PREMIUMS CUT

County to Save Money on Its Insurance Coverage.

A reduction in the insurance premium rate on county property will bring the county a $647 refund and reduce the insurance cost by $600 a year, commissioners were informed today by the state auditing bureau.

The refund covers premiums paid over the past three years and is the result of a reduction of $1.07 per thousand in the county's rate on its property coverage, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board, asserted.

Mitchell said the lower rate would enable the county to carry more insurance at less than the former cost.

The county pays $3,300 a year in premiums on $566,000 in insurance on the courthouse, county home, children's home, and other property

MINERS CONTINUE 'STAY-IN' STRIKE

Priest Attempts to Persuade 56 to Come to Surface.

HAZELTON, Pa.—(AP)—A parish priest took a leading part today in renewed attempts to end an underground strike of Wolfe Collieries company miners who have been "holed up" in a pit at nearby Oneida for four days, demanding wages they claim are overdue.

The priest, Rev. Joseph Baran, who once went down into the mine to plead with the men to come out, helped arrange a conference between a committee representing the strikers and Hugh V. Brown, district president of the United Mine Workers.

Five miners have been brought to the surface for treatment since the strike began, but 56 remain in the mine.

"I'll Rot In Jail"

"I'll rot in jail before I'll give that wife of mine a cent." So declares Anthony F. Kline of Erie, Pa., who has completed a full year in jail rather than pay $12 a week to his wife and son. Kline says he'll support the boy, but not the wife. The Kline's separated after 17 years of married life. Before he was jailed Kline had a steady job and a $10,000 home almost paid for. The sheriff now has the home for failure to continue the payments. Last June Kline decided not to shave until released from the obligation of supporting his wife. He hasn't shaved since.

NLRB RULES UNIONS MUST TAKE CONTRACT FIGHTS TO COURTS

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The National Labor Relations Board served notice on American labor unions today that their remedy for breach of contract, like that of the employer, must be sought from the courts.

The board promulgated the rule that recourse for violation of labor contracts may not be sought from the NLRB, because contract violations are not covered by the Wagner Labor Relations act.

Government attorneys said that the rule means that labor unions or employers faced with abrogation of contracts must sue for damages or appeal to state courts for injunctions to restrain violation of such agreements.

The board enunciated the interpretation of labor law in deciding that a United Mine Workers union strike against the Sixth Vein Coal corporation, Madisonville, Ky., was not caused by "unfair labor practices" of the company

Miners struck April 1, 1936 in protest against the company's announced refusal to pay the $4.50 daily wage required by an existing contract between the coal producer and the UMWA. Company officials contended that they could not afford to pay the contract scale because competitive mines in the same field were paying only $4 per day.

Union leaders charged before the board that the company's failure to abide by its contract was a violation of the labor relations statute, but the board overruled this contention.

Smash Windows In Anti-Nazi Disorders.

WARSAW —(INS)— Two windows were smashed today in the German embassy in Warsaw shortly before the arrival here of Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano, as increasingly serious anti-German demonstrations by students in various parts of Poland caused tension in Polish-German relations.

Anti-German student riots continued through the night in Warsaw, Poznan and other cities. In Poznan, the windows of the headquarters of German organizations and several German shops were smashed.

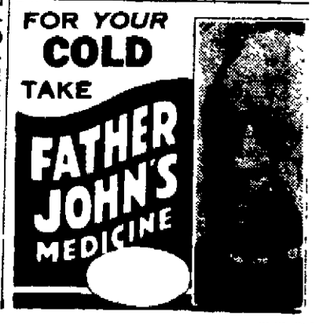

As the demonstrations which were said here to be retaliations for alleged mistreatment of Poles in Danzig continued despite police precautions, the Italian foreign minister arrived for discussions centering on Poland's international position.

Berlin Maps Protest On Warsaw Outbreak.

BERLIN — (INS) — The German government views with concern the Polish anti-German student outbreaks and may make sharp representations to Warsaw, it was understood in well-informed quarters in Berlin today.

The contemplated protest is expected to point out that the demonstrations are inconsistent with friendly German-Polish relations.

Diplomatic circles here privately speculated on whether the demonstrations might have been semi-officially inspired in Warsaw to counteract Nazi activities in Danzig.

Stage Tournament Finals at Mansfield High Tonight

Shiloh-Butler Affair Tops Semi-Finals

Bluejays, Lucas Tangle In Other Contest This Afternoon; Finals Set for 9 O'Clock.

HOSTILITIES were resumed in the Richland county tournament at 1:30 p. m. today with four quintets battling in the semi-finals on the Mansfield high court

Highlighting the afternoon's activities was the opening tussle between the defending championship Butler Bulldogs and the canny Shiloh high scoring machine.

May Pull Upset.

The Drummer Boys pulled the major upset in the second round games when they sank Madison high's title ambitions, and are capable of duplicating the feat today.

The other contest brings together the towering Lucas high outfit and Bellville's cagey Bluejays, and although Lucas is favored to survive the melee, it may encounter more trouble than anticipated.

Coach Royd Hodges' proteges, playing their second season of basketball, showed considerable promise in beating Ontario in a second round meeting. Bellville's main job is to stop the high-scoring tactics of Lucas' ace forwards, Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford.

If Hodges can set a defense to halt them, his team has another chance to upset the dope bucket.

Shiloh topped Madison in an overtime game, and displayed a brilliant defensive game that may be difficult for Butler to solve. The Bulldogs will stake their hopes on Thrust and Grubb, a pair of inexperienced players who replace Kenny Miller and Wilson.

How well Coach Bob Burgett's youngsters can bottle up Bob Moser, Shiloh's nifty scorer, may be a deciding factor in the affray.

Hold Free Throw Contest.

Also on the afternoon schedule is a foul shooting contest, set for 3:30 p. m.

The consolation finals will be held at 8 o'clock tonight, with the finals to get under way at 9 o'clock.

Tournament Schedule

TODAY
1:30 p. m.—Butler vs. Shiloh.
2:30 p. m.—Lucas vs. Bellville.
3:30 p. m.—Foul shooting contest.
8:00 p. m.—Consolation finals.

Ambers Ready For Armstrong

Wins on Technical Kayo Over Arizmendi.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Lou Ambers' return match for the lightweight championship with Harry Armstrong was assured today and in addition the gate receipts probably have been swelled by several thousand dollars by virtue of Ambers' technical knockout last night over Baby Arizmendi.

The New York Boxing commission already has notified Armstrong that he must make a defense against Ambers, from whom the coast star won the crown a few months ago, and Ambers clinched the crack at the title by cutting Arizmendi so severely over the right eye in the ninth round that Referee Pete Hartley, acting under orders from Dr William G. Walker of the commission stopped the fight between the 10th and 11th of a scheduled 12-rounder.

They fought viciously and at a fast pace most of the way until the end finally arrived with the little California Mexican unable to finish for the first time in his career. A slashing left hook by Ambers ripped open the gash.

When the bout ended they were just about even on points each having won five rounds Ambers won two rounds, the second and fourth, on Arizmendi's low punching and in spots took a severe battering but he was picking up speed and going strong toward the finish and apparently headed for a decision even if the bout had not been halted

However before a sparse crowd of 8,800 Arizmendi kept intact on record that he has maintained through more than 200 fights, five of them with Armstrong and two others with Ambers He still has never been knocked off his feet

TIE FOR TITLE

FREMONT — Sandusky high's Blue Streaks and Findlay high share the Buckeye league championship today. The Blue Streaks gained a share of the crown here last night by edging a scrappey Fremont high combine, 26 to 24.

Cagers Impressive In Last Tussle

Gain Revenge Over Bulldogs for Early Season Defeat; Shelley Leads Attack.

By CHARLES MARTIN

MANSFIELD HIGH'S TYGERS rolled down the curtain on their regular 1938-39 season last night by turning in one of their finest performances of the year.

Coach Russ Murphy's men roared down the home stretch to register a thrilling 32 to 29 victory over Canton McKinley before a near-capacity gathering on the Senior high hardwood.

Prepare for Tournament.

With the regular schedule out of the way, the Tygers today began concentrating on defending their championship in the district tournament which gets under way at Sandusky Friday night.

Playing a deliberately slow offensive game against the hard-charging Bulldogs, Mansfield moved the ball in for set shots that at times completely bewildered its opponent.

Little Ike Smith, playing his third contest as a regular, proved to be a big help to Jack Lyons in bringing the ball from the back court. His clever ball handling was an outstanding feature of the melee.

Dave Shelley, the Tygers' lanky pivot man, who set the individual scoring tempo with 12 points, was particularly effective beneath the basket. His nifty shooting enabled Mansfield to gain an early lead it never relinquished.

The tussle developed into a rough affair in the second half, with Canton losing three of its regulars and Mansfield one. The Tygers lost the services of Tommy Scott midway in the final frame, but Rudolph, who replaced him, filled his berth in excellent style. McKinley lost Triner, Purses and Lockard in that period.

Although Mansfield held the advantage throughout, the Bulldogs threatened seriously several times, but the Mansfielders' sturdy defense successfully throttled every threat.

The Murphymen piled up a 32 to 23 lead in the fading minutes of the affray, but they had a scare from the invaders, who fought desperately to overtake their conquerors.

Once, midway in the second quarter, Canton pulled within two points of the lead, but a goal by Shelley and foul conversions by Jack Dugger and Lyons enabled the Mansfield team to increase its lead.

Murphy's proteges exhibited a splendid defensive game in the initial chapter and limited the visitors to a pair of free throws.

Canton encountered trouble in the opening half working the ball in against the Mansfield defense. And four minutes had elapsed in the second period before Triner tipped in McKinley's initial goal.

It was the 10th triumph for the Tygers against six defeats. And the setback administered by Mansfield was Canton's eighth in 16 starts.

Mansfield spurted in the first stanza to take an 8 to 2 lead, and was ahead, 16 to 9, at the rest period. The Tygers were outscored by two points in the third, but went into the last period holding a 25 to 20 advantage.

The Canton aggregation missed the services of Roman, who quit the squad last month. Roman was one of the principal causes of Mansfield's earlier setback at the hands of the Bulldogs at Canton.

Every member of the Tyger team that started the game contributed at least one point to the cause. Jack Lyons followed Shelley in the scoring column with eight points, while Dugger, who was a big help to Shelley in controlling the rebounds, added seven.

Triner, Canton's ace guard, led the losers with 11 points

Mansfield Reserves Lose.

The Mansfield No. 1 reserves dropped a 35 to 23 decision to Canton. Mansfield battled the Junior Bulldogs on even terms in the opening period, but Canton went ahead in the second, and held the lead to the final gun. The score was 9-all in the first; McKinley forged ahead, 18 to 15, at half time, and was leading, 22 to 20, at the start of the last stanza.

Bob Beer topped Mansfield with 10 points, while Inman paced the winners with 13.

In the other preliminary attraction, the No. 2 reserves handed the prospective 1939-40 Madison high team a 26 to 16 licking. Henke was high with nine points.

Lockhart Tops Senior Loop Scoring Race

Holds 2-Point Advantage Over Nearest Rival.

Kenny Lockhart of the Blue Goose Sohioans, erstwhile Madison high cage star, and Kenny Hardin, of the Raemelton Farm quintet, are waging a two-man battle for first place in the individual scoring race in the Senior A league at the Friendly House.

Lockhart, Blue Goose forward, at present holds a slim two-point lead with his 141 total, but Hardin is right on his heels with 139 points. Only two more weeks of play remain in the circuit, but whether Lockhart can hold onto his advantage is a question.

A PART of the 8,500 lot of pheasants to be distributed in Ohio the last week of this month and on into March will be 350 Black, or Melanistic Mutant, birds from the Urbana game farm of the Division of Conservation. A limited number of these birds were stocked for the first time last year in suitable territory for pheasants, but where ringnecks were scarce to avoid crossing. This distribution will be in the same places to afford opportunity to note their increase, habits and adaptation to habitat. The black pheasants are said not to run like ringnecks and to lie better before dogs.

There is a movement on for the adoption of legislation making it possible to introduce the teaching of wildlife subjects in Ohio public schools. There are some critics who hold that such study is not appropriate. If the proposed course in angling could teach young men and women to become the philosophers that true fishermen become, then fishing is worthy of curricular consideration.

Scales from a 15-pound, 2-ounce blue perch caught in the Muskingum river, near Beverly, were sent to the Ohio Conservation division, and analysis by the scientists showed the fish to have been 12 years old. This perch was one of the largest on record in the Muskingum.

The traditional busy bee and the hard working ant have nothing on the black-crowned night herons of West Sister Island, near Toledo, Ohio. The American Wild Life Institute reports that these industrious birds fly no less than 160 miles a day, carrying food for their young. Though a Federal Refuge, this island, on which about 1200 of the birds are nested, is practically devoid of heron food, and every scrap of food must be carried from the mainland marshes, the nearest of which is 9 miles away. As the average number of infant herons to a nest is four, and they require five or more feedings a day, it is obvious that the parents birds are kept exceedingly busy.

To clean cork grips on your fishing rods, a friend suggests this: Take a soft cloth and wet with acetone, then rub the cork on your rod grips. All dirt, says he, will come off in record time.

By the time the first of March rolls around, most anglers have begun to give thought to spring fishing, and the tackle they'll need for it. Many new things are arriving every day at Yuncker's, and now is an excellent time to come in and look over the new stocks of rods, reels, lines, lures, etc. Of special interest are the new fly rods by Granger, Weber and Horrocks-Ibbotson.

Mildred's Still Feminine Mat Champion

WRESTLING'S gem-studded gold belt symbolic of the women's lightweight championship of the world, still snugly encircles the buxom, but bruised waist of Miss Mildred Burke, Kansas City, thanks to Miss Babe Myers' penchant for rough tactics in the clinches.

Billed as the semi-final on Tim Nolan's Friday night wrestling show at the Armory, the bout between Miss Burke and the Titian-haired Miss Myers of St. Paul stole the thunder of the main go and had several of the women fans in the ring ready to do mayhem to Babe.

It all started off innocently enough, but the robust red head soon got mad and let Millie have it with a flying choke hold, all unbeknown to Referee Clarence Miller. Babe succeeded in strangling Millie into "insensibility" in eight minutes, ten seconds for the first fall.

Returning after the intermission, Millie came out to get even and took the second fall in under four minutes with a series of body slams and a top body press, much to the delight of the women in the audience.

Third fall went to the Kansas City girl on default when Babe tried an eye gouge and a drop-kick to the mid-riff. But Babe didn't like Miller's decision one bit, kicking, gouging and attempting to strangle Referee Miller while Mildred lay on the canvass.

And just to prove that she wasn't kidding when she protested the decision, Babe caught up with Millie in the dressing room and gave her another going over until stopped by attendants.

Whitey Whalberg took two consecutive falls from Firo Rinaldi after absorbing more foul play from the hands of Villain Rinaldi. Whitey took the first fall in 14 minutes with a series of Dan O'-Mahoney's famous Irish whips, a slam off the ropes and a top body press. The second fall came in eight minutes when Whalberg got an arm lock, rolled Rinaldi into dizziness and won with a top body press.

In the opener, the Masked Question Mark disposed of Ernie Dugan in just 10 minutes. The fall came following four body slams and a top body press.

So well did the fans like Millie Burke, the champ, Matchmaker Tim Nolan is attempting to arrange a go between Miss Phyllis Brooks of Boston and the champ for next Friday night. The title will be at stake.—By John McLean.

DEATH CLOSER FOR 6 SLAYERS IN PRISON RIOT

Mass Electrocution Set for March 10 for Murder of Carolina Prison Guard.

(By United Press)

COLUMBIA, S. C.—The shadow of South Carolina's home-made electric chair hangs over six men who are scheduled to die on March 10 in the largest mass execution of white men in the history of the state. They were convicted of murder-stabbing a prison guard to death.

Only executive clemency by Gov. Burnet R. Maybank will save any of the men whose appeal for a re-hearing was denied recently by the state supreme court.

The men who were found guilty of murdering J. Olin Sanders, guard captain, and sentenced to die are: William B. Woods, alias William H. Gentry, 25, of Biloxi, Miss.; Herbert Moorman, 43, of Detroit; Clayton Crans, 30, of Rochester, N. Y.; J. V. Bair, alias Jesse Williams, 29, of Sumter; Roy Suttles, 30, of Simpsonville; and George Wingard, 20, Lexington, all of South Carolina.

Governor's Pleas Ignored.

Nearly 16 months have passed since the six convicts captured Sanders, held him prisoner in his office and despite the pleas of prison officials, fellow prisoners, national guardsmen and ex-Gov. Olin D. Johnston, stabbed him to death.

The prisoners escaped from their cells on Sunday morning, Dec. 12, 1937, with the aid of a dummy pistol carved from wood. Overpowering the guard captain, they demanded that they be given an automobile and that the gates be opened so they could escape.

For three hours officials pleaded with them to release Sanders. When the arguments proved fruitless, tear gas was fired into the building. Four men staggered out. National guardsmen donned gas masks and rushed in to overpower the other two. Captain Sanders was found dying from five knife wounds.

A month later the six convicts were found guilty of murder and sentenced to die on March 25, 1938. The defense counsel appealed to the supreme court and the men were sent back to confinement.

Woods Assumed Blame.

During the trial Woods assumed sole blame for Sanders' death and confessed to having stabbed him. However, Wingard testified that Suttles also stabbed the guard.

After the appeal, Gentry, Suttles and Bair were returned to the state penitentiary. Wingard, Crans and Moorman were placed in the Richland county jail at Columbia. Less than a month later the three men confined in the county jail escaped and were free for 14 hours before being recaptured and placed in the state prison.

Recently Woods attempted suicide by slashing his wrists with a piece of metal torn from his cot. Guards stopped him before he injured himself seriously. He then went on a hunger strike, refusing to eat for three days until officials threatened to feed him by force.

The six men heard the supreme court's decision without emotion. Only Woods had any comment. He said:

"Well, you're not exactly hurting my feelings any."

SPORTS

INDIANA CAN WIN TITLE TONIGHT IF OHIO LOSES

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— If the gods are smiling tonight, Indiana's darkhorse Hoosiers can clinch half the Big Ten basketball title. An Indiana victory and Ohio State defeat will give the flying leaders half the pennant and if they get that much of it stuffed away they need only one more triumph in the last two games to make it an undisputed championship.

The Hoosiers run into Minnesota tonight and Ohio State plays at Wisconsin in the two title games. In the other two, Illinois plays at Northwestern and Michigan invades Purdue.

SULLIVAN AND NOVA PLAY IN FINAL TONIGHT

ASHLAND — The two leading Ashland county Class B. quintets meet in the finals of the county tournament in the Ashland college gym here tonight.

Sullivan won its right to the finals by dumping Polk, 33 to 26, while Nova smothered Jeromesville, 48 to 28, in the other semi-final affair. Polk and Jeromesville will open activities tonight in the consolation finals at 8 p. m.

SHOOT IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Marksmen from Ohio and half a dozen other states trained their sights on targets at the Fort Hayes range today in opening matches of the midwest small bore rifle championships.

GETS FIRST BASEMAN

ARKON —(AP)— Hank Sauer, who batted .350 for Butler in the Penn State league last season, will play first base for the Akron team of the Mid-Atlantic baseball league this year, club officials said today.

COMPETE IN GARDEN

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The 51st national amateur indoor track and field championships go on in Madison Square Garden tonight. The men who will compete for the 16 titles compose the cream of the track.

THEATERS

"Tail Spin."

THE annual Bendix Trophy race and the Air Races at Cleveland are woven into the picture "Tail Spin," which opens with a midnight show tonight at the Madison theater. The story is from the angle of the women aviators, for women have been prominent in the race in the last two years. Four Hollywood stars are featured in it, Alice Faye, Constance Bennett, Nancy Kelly and Joan Davis. The race is shown from the time the girls streak out of the sky at Los Angeles until they land at the Cleveland airport, and interwoven are the tears and the love affairs of the girls. Charles Farrell and Kane Richmond are the male leads.

"Honolulu."

Robert Young plays a dual role in "Honolulu," the Ohio attraction which opened at that theater today and runs for a week. He plays a movie star eager to get away from an annoying public, and also a Hawaiian pineapple planter, and in the exchange of personalities, there is a complication of love affairs which isn't helped much by the fact that Gracie Allen has a hand in it. Eleanor Powell and George Burns are the other names in the stellar quartet heading the cast. What happens to the movie idol in Honolulu convinces him that Hollywood, after all, is a nice quiet place. Two of Hollywood's prettiest newcomers, Ann Morriss and Ruth Hussey, who are now well on the road to popularity, have small roles in the film.

"Jezebel."

The Majestic theater was particularly fortunate in its booking for Sunday and Monday because Manager Wayne Williams had "Jezebel" scheduled before the Academy gave the award for the best acting of the year to Bette Davis in that picture. The announcement was made Thursday night. It is undoubtedly one of her greatest roles and probably one of the best pieces of acting done by any woman in talking pictures. It is a story of the Old South and of a beautiful girl who ruined several lives, including her own, with an evil disposition. The climax is terrible and dramatic, but very logical. Henry Fonda, George Brent, Margaret Lindsay and Fay Bainter head the cast. Miss Bainter also won an Academy award this year for the best supporting role, which was in "Jezebel."

"Carefree."

Manager Ralph Shaffer of the Park theater is also pretty chesty about his bill for the first half of the week, starting tomorrow. He is bringing back Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in their last picture which was released only a few months ago, "Carefree," and is showing a first run of the British-Gaumont film "The Lady Vanishes," which has been highly praised by American critics. The Astaire-Rogers dancing picture has Ralph Bellamy in a featured spot. Beautiful Margaret Lockwood of the English films, Paul Lukas and Michael Redgrave are seen in the second film.

"Stablemates."

When Wallace Beery and Mickey Rooney are teamed you can expect "human interest" in large doses, and there is plenty of it in "Stablemates," the Ritz feature for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. A racetrack bum casts his doubtful fortune in with that of a stable boy who has accepted a lame race horse in lieu of the wages due him. But when the bum turns out to be a former veterinarian surgeon and the horse recovers, their fortunes begin to pick up. A triangle made up of Herbert Marshall, Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor, work out a problem in "Woman Against Woman," on the same bill.

Ginger's Latest Film Returns

The vivacious lady shown here is one of the few dancers who has been able to keep up with the nimble feet of Fred Astaire. The latest Ginger Rogers-Fred Astaire picture, "Carefree," returns to Mansfield for a second showing at the Park theater Sunday through Tuesday. Although this popular screen team has tried to break up several times, an insistent call from the box office has brought them together again, and they are now working on a story of the great ballroom dancers of two decades ago, The Castles.

STOCK PRICES UP FRACTIONS TO TWO POINTS

Steels, Rails And Motors Prominent In Advance; Retail Sales Up.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks moved up at a fast pace in today's market dealings, leaders gaining fractions to around two points.

With the tape a minute late shortly after the start of trading, prominent issues on the advance included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Great Northern, Douglas Aircraft and DuPont.

While the Des Moines speech last night by Secretary of Commerce Hopkins was the principal subject of discussion in boardrooms before the opening, trade items were not neglected by analysts.

Noted was the survey of the federal reserve board showing department store sales for the week ended Feb. 18 registered an increase of 2 per cent over the corresponding 1938 period. In the preceding week sales suffered a year-to-year decline of 2 per cent.

UNCOVER NEW FUND SHORTAGE

County Officials Call In State Examiner; Conservancy Tax Collector Fired.

check of the treasurer's books.

Marriott pointed out that no responsibility for the shortage was placed on Kolb or any of the deputies. The conservancy office is operated independently of the county office, although the collector is under the jurisdiction of the treasurer.

Recommended By Board.

Erdenberger's appointment was made on the recommendation of the conservancy board. It was approved by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston Jan. 2, 1936, several weeks after Erdenberger had started work.

C. H. Workman, attorney for the conservancy board, said Erdenberger had filed $5,000 bond with the board. Members of the board are T. R. Barnes, C. L. Martenfels, and E. R. Hartman.

The conservancy district has been a "sore spot" with city and township taxpayers since it was set up in 1927. The district issued bonds for $165,000 to finance a flood control project in the Mansfield area. No work was ever done on the proposed project, although a levy was assessed over a 10-year period, beginning in 1935, to retire the bonds.

Half of the bonds will be retired this year and the entire issue will be paid out in 1944. The tax is paid by all property owners in Mansfield and a few outside the city in Madison township.

Funds provided by the bond issue financed an engineering survey of the area, paid administration costs and the salary of the collector.

Prosecutor Marriott said he would have no statement to make concerning the shortage until the audit "reveals more definite information."

Judge Huston, who was influential in calling the investigation, asserted "steps would be taken to clear up the matter."

Marriott said the case interrupted his investigation of the $4,259 shortage in the accounts of Allen K. Ports, former municipal court clerk.

The prosecutor said he would go into the Ports case later, and until he had time to go over the examiner's report of the shortage, which was made public yesterday, he will take no action.

DISMISSES CASE, LASHES POLICE

Judge Criticizes 'Laxity' In Preparing Evidence For Court Prosecution.

she had written down the license number taken by her husband as he fell to the roadway with a fractured collarbone.

Lieut. Paul Whipp and Patrolman John Gilbert said they checked on the license number and then went to the Tappan home where they found Tappan in bed fully clothed. They said his car was in the garage and that the motor was still warm.

Tappan had told the court that he was in bed at 8:30 p. m., almost an hour before the officers arrived at the house.

Evidence submitted by E. C. Fuller, police identification expert showed that paint on the hubcaps of both machines had collided, he said.

Judge Kalbfleisch commenting on the case said that all the prosecution evidence had been entirely circumstantial and had failed to prove that Tappan had been away from home at the time of the accident.

Judge Kalbfleisch said that testimony in the Tappan case yesterday showed that officers had found Tappan in bed, fully clothed, shortly after the accident occurred—about 9 p. m.—but had not arrested him until four hours later, and then on an affidavit signed by Fox.

Says Police Lack Initiative.

The judge said that he had been forced to dismiss many cases because police failed to take the initiative in them or to make arrests speedily enough.

"Under the present police system a driver who may have been intoxicated and narrowly missed killing somebody is allowed to go free just because the police did not see the man actually behind the wheel," Kalbfleisch said.

"Because the police lack the initiative to obtain statements from witnesses and to file charges themselves, depending on an outsider to sign an affidavit often times results in the loss of hours and makes a thin case to present in court."

He pointed out that in past year former solicitors had sought to have police take immediate steps for speedy arrests of persons accused of driving while under the influence of alcohol, but that their requests had been ignored.

He also suggested that sworn statements taken from all witnesses and parties involved in drunken driving cases would result in convictions, heretofore dismissed because of the lack of evidence.

"Cases now where officers actually see a motorist driving under the influence of alcohol and sign affidavits against usually bring convictions, and the drivers are often sent to jail, although there may not have been an accident," Kalbfleisch said.

At the present, police take sworn statements from witnesses only in accidents where a fatality has occurred.

Once a sworn statement is taken, if the witness refuses to testify, he may be subpoenaed and upon the request of the prosecution be recognized by the court as a hostile witness and subject to cross examination.

Kalbfleisch said a witness signing a statement would hesitate to withdraw charges or refuse to testify with the knowledge that he would be subjected to cross examination. This, he asserted, would tend to result in an added number of convictions in driving cases.

STUDY HOPKINS BUSINESS BID

Leaders Ponder Secretary's Plea For Co-operation To Promote Recovery.

eration and the fields occupied by the private companies."

Willkie expressed the view that Hopkins "speaks with the authority of those governmental agencies that have to do with the power industry, . . . his offer of co-operation . . . will be reassuring. . . . The log jam in utility investment, which if broken would mean so much in promoting employment, must be broken by action on the part of government."

The secretary outlined a federal program of encouragement to industry which recommended:

A tolerant attitude by labor in dealings with employers.

Assistance for small business.

Use of utilities as one means of breaking "the log-jam of private investment."

"No general rise in federal taxes" and amendment of those levies which tend to freeze the necessary flow of capital.

An increased national income to take up the unemployment slack and to balance the budget.

Greater returns to the farmer for his crops.

"This country cannot be in good health and the democratic principle cannot be safe until men go back to work," he said. "For this reason I am glad the utilities question is reaching a solution."

Pleading for industrial peace, the secretary put it up to "employers and employes alike to make collective bargaining work."

"Prosperity means production, and production stops during either strikes or lockouts," he declared.

No New Monopoly Legislation Seen.

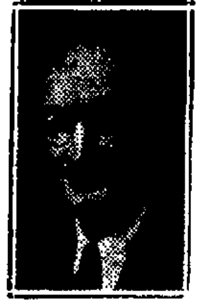

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration's effort to quiet business fears and encourage private investment gained impetus today from a statement by Democratic Leader Barkley of the senate that he had received word no general anti-monopoly legislation would be offered at this session of congress.

Barkley told reporters he had received this information from Chairman O'Mahoney, (D.-Wyo.), of the special committee of legislators and government officials appointed to investigate monopoly and other economic subjects.

The senate leader added, however, that the committee would ask additional funds—probably at least as much as the $500,000 appropriated for it last year—to continue its investigations.

Barkley's announcement was one of several apparent indications that the crop of new laws turned out at the present session of congress might be comparatively small.

HOPKINS' TALK TONIGHT BUOYS STOCK MARKET

Leading Issues Show Gains In Modest Trading; Philip Morris Hits New High.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Further modest buying seeped into the stock market today and leading issues advanced fractions to a point.

Brokers credited the better performance of the list partly to expectations Secretary of Commerce Hopkins tonight would make another friendly administration gesture toward industry.

Prominent stocks on the upside included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison and Westinghouse. Philip Morris hit a new 1938-39 top following action of directors in voting a $2 extra dividend.

Bonds and commodities generally exhibited improvement. European markets were better all around.

Market observers derived a little cheer from the Dun & Bradstreet survey which disclosed retail spending this week, while exhibiting spotty tendencies, topped the like period last year, for the country as a whole, by 1 to 4 per cent.

Studied were the federal reserve figures showing a continued heavy flow of gold from Europe and, for the second consecutive week, a modest expansion in commercial lending.

Italians Launch Mass Exodus From France

3,000 ANSWER DUCE'S EDICT TO COME HOME

Thousands More to Leave, Says Embassy Official; Rumblings of War Increase.

SEEN 'SLAP' AT FRENCH

Diplomats Believe Action Taken to 'Scare' Paris on Colony Demands.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Thousands of Italian citizens living in France were leaving for their homeland today in a mass exodus under Premier Mussolini's repatriation order for Italians abroad.

An Italian embassy spokesman said the exodus was "only a beginning."

Italian officials said several hundred Italians were leaving Paris aboard special trains in the afternoon while "nearly 3,000" were returning to their native land from Marseille, Bordeaux and other cities.

Viewed as Slap 'At France.'

Although the movement officially was in response to the repatriation order under which Italians in all lands were being called home, it was viewed in many quarters as a direct slap at France.

Officially, the French government accepted Rome's official reason that the repatriation followed the Fascist plan to get most of the Italians living abroad back to work in Italy.

Despite this reason, the occurrence of the repatriation at a crucial moment in Italian-French relations was viewed by responsible quarters as due to one of two things:

1. Either Italy feared war with France might come soon or;
2. Italy wanted "to frighten" the French into believing she was preparing to back up colonial demands on France with action.

Today's repatriation movement followed by a day a disclosure that Italian residents of Corsica, French island department near the Italian mainland, were returning home. The Italian embassy estimated the number to leave Corsica on Monday at about 1,000.

10 Million Live Abroad.

(Italy estimates the number of Italians living abroad at 10,000,000, a figure which does not take into account naturalizations and includes the children born of Italians abroad.

(According to this figure there are 992,000 Italians in France, 3,749,000 in the United States,

"I Suffered In a German Concentration Camp"

Man Penned Up for Two Years In German Horror Camp Tells Dramatic Story Of Brutalities and Injustices

Describes Shooting of Inmates at 'Death Line.'

EDITOR'S NOTE: A man who read an anti-Nazi newspaper, suffered the tortures of a German concentration camp—and escaped after two years—writes graphically of his experiences in a series of four exclusive articles for Central Press and The News-Journal. This is the first story.

By CARL HARDER
(Escaped Prisoner From German Concentration Camp.)

ERIE, Pa.—What IS a German concentration camp?

It is located in a desolate region where there is no nearby habitation. A rutty dirt road leads to the camp. Before seeing anything of it, you are confronted with a large sign: "STOP! Not a step farther! Violation will result in sharp shooting!" This, then, is the end of the road, and the end of the world!

The whole district is surrounded by strong barbed wire fences. Around the immediate camp are barricades, also of barbed wire, so closely and tightly strung that not even a rabbit could get through. Farther on there are more barricades interwoven with live wire of high voltage. Guards are posted at intervals, ready to shoot.

The Death Line!

Now we are in the camp! A conspicuous white line—like a traffic line—runs parallel to the last row of barricades. That is the DEATH LINE. If a prisoner knowingly or unknowingly steps across this white line, the machine guns, stationed on special tower-like structures, cut loose, and there will be another victim, bullet ridden! The cause of his death is registered as "shot in the attempt to escape."

It is not infrequent that guards throw tools over that line, ordering prisoners to get them! If they refuse, they face horrible punishment for disobedience. If they comply with the command, thinking that the order is carried out in broad daylight and in full view of the guards, they are shot down like mad dogs. That is one method of getting rid of prisoners with whom the Nazi authorities don't quite know what to do.

The guards are mostly young men, between the ages of 20 and 30. The houses in which they live are built of brick and wood. They are well constructed and comfortably furnished. But the prisoners have quite a different environment. They are herded together in large barracks, crudely built, with concrete floors.

One building houses about 50 men; two rooms serve as sleeping quarters for 25 men each. Another room, furnished with crude wooden benches and tables, might be called "the living room."

From All Professions.

Who is in the concentration camps? Most of the prisoners are not ordinary people, but professional men. All occupations are

Beightler Bares Charges In Dismissal of Fletcher

State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler today listed the instances of political activity he used as a basis for discharging Arthur Fletcher, Mansfield, from his position as highway maintenance superintendent in Richland county.

A United Press dispatch to The News-Journal said Beightler accused Fletcher of misfeasance, malfeasance, nonfeasance, neglect of duty and solicitation of campaign funds.

Fletcher revealed earlier in the week that he had been dismissed, effective today, and said he would appeal the dismissal to the state civil service commission. The United Press reported that no appeal had been filed today, however. Fletcher could not be reached today for comment on Beightler's charges.

Beightler charged in his removal order that Fletcher had solocited $10 from Roy Finney and $6 from Darrel W. Lape, both highway employes and had instructed them to pay it to Curtis Ford.

Ford is a clerk in the maintenance office. Finney and Lape were discharged in the recent wholesale dismissal of workers in the department by the state director.

Beightler also charged that Fletcher had given William Gremling, an employe of the department, a two-weeks "vacation" to campaign for Ex-governor Martin L. Davey before the primary election last August. Fletcher was also accused of requesting Finney and Lape to obtain signatures for a candidate's petition before the primary.

Richard Bewley, another worker who was dismissed, Carl Reed, a truck driver in the department, and Bewley were instructed to transport persons from Columbus to Richland county to solicit votes from old age pensioners, Beightler's charge said.

Fletcher had held the superintendency for two years under a civil service appointment. He received $2,400 a year. No successor has been named to succeed him.

DANCER SLAIN

Russian Girl, 27, Attacked On Los Angeles Campus.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Ayna Sosayera, 27-year-old Russian dancer, died early today after she gasped "someone hit me on the head" and collapsed on the Los Angeles city college campus.

Detective Lieut. William Clark said she had been criminally attacked as she returned to her nearby apartment from a night dramatics class at the college.

Clark said Wally Meyers, a classmate of Miss Sosayera, reported the girl stumbled toward him, gasped "someone hit me on the head," but collapsed before she could describe her assailant.

Police said preliminary questioning of Meyers gave no hint of the identity of the girl's assailant and no description of what occurred. Clark attributed Miss Sosayera's death to a fractured skull.

Col. Salustio Limon Colotla, two lieutenants and ten soldiers were among the casualties. The rebel chieftain, Pedro Ibarra, was killed.

NEW PEACE BID

Lewis, Green Get Letter From Roosevelt on Labor Split.

NEW YORK—(AP)—John L. Lewis, CIO head, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today announced they had received a letter from President Roosevelt urging them to effect peace within the labor movement, but neither would discuss the contents:

"Quite definitely, I'll have nothing to say later today," said Lewis.

"I expect to make a formal statement later this afternoon," said Green.

Green denied that he and Lewis had met on matters of peace.

"I haven't seen Mr. Lewis in more than a year," said the AFL leader. "I don't know where he is."

DISMISSES CASE, LASHES POLICE

Judge Criticizes 'Laxity' In Preparing Evidence For Court Prosecution.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch today charged the Mansfield police department with laxity in drawing charges and preparing evidence as he commented on the dismissal yesterday afternoon of the case of Russell Tappan, 219 South Mulberry street, charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

The judge dismissed the case for lack of evidence. Tappan had been accused of driving the car which struck Howard Fox, 268 Harker street, as he alighted from his machine on West First street, on Feb. 4.

In the trial yesterday that lasted for four hours, eight witnesses were heard. Six were called to the stand by the prosecution. Tappan and his mother, Mrs. Grace Tappan were called by the defense, handled by Attorney Joseph Bayer.

Both Tappan and his mother testified that he was at home in bed at the time the accident had occurred.

Fox told the court that he obtained the license number of the machine as it drove away after striking him. Mrs. Fox said that

2-Hour Hearing Fails To End School Merger Controversy

A two-year controversy over the proposed consolidation of three rural school districts in northern Richland county was still unsettled today following a two-hour hearing at the courthouse.

Nearly 100 residents of Butler, Bloominggrove, Weller and Franklin townships attended the session in common pleas court room, with the Butler township delegation providing major opposition to the proposal as in the past.

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, said the hearing provided "a better understanding of the consolidation plan," but added that the county board probably would take no action on the consolidation until its March meeting.

Today's hearing, called by the county board of education, was adjourned at 1 p. m. because of the county basketball tournament this afternoon.

It was the protests of the Butler township delegation a month ago that caused the county board to postpone a decision on the matter until today. The Butler township board and patrons in the district have waged a two-year battle to keep their school at Adario, opposing any move to consolidate it with another district.

The county board's proposal calls for merging of the Butler and Bloominggrove township districts with the Union district which includes Weller and Franklin townships.

New Ashland Judge Wars On 'Promiscuous' Divorce Suits

ASHLAND—In office less than three weeks, Judge H. E. Culbertson of the Ashland common pleas court, today opened a one-man campaign against the promiscuous filing of divorce petitions in Ashland county.

Speaking from the bench this morning as he heard a citation in a non-support case, Judge Culbertson declared that "the divorce situation in Ashland county had to stop."

"There are entirely too many divorces and people are running to the divorce courts too often to settle their domestic troubles," the judge said. "Too many people have looked upon divorces as a means to end their domestic difficulties."

Judge Culbertson warned that from now on when people come to his court for a divorce and he discovers that petty quarreling is the reason for the action, and when he thinks it proper, he will send the couple to jail for a while to "cool off' and then send them home.

"This thing of divorces in families of four or five children also has to stop," he added. "In many cases mothers fail to provide the right kind of a home for their family, and the fathers fail to provide for them.

"I am sick and tired of the number of divorce cases I have had to hear since taking over this office."

Judge Culbertson said that in the future if he finds perjury in divorce testimony he will impose penitentiary sentences.

He was elected last fall and took office Feb. 9. He succeeded Judge C. C. Chapman.

U. S. Weighs Hopkins Bid To Business

Administration Out to Promote Recovery, Secretary Says.

(By Associated Press)

DES MOINES—American business men today studied an invitation from Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins for labor, agriculture and business to join government "on the same side of the table" and work out the nation's economic problems.

In a speech filled with references to "free enterprise," "private investment" and "business confidence," the secretary last night asserted the national administration was out to promote recovery "with all the vigor and power at its command."

"The government earnestly wishes that these things (recovery) be accomplished, and we ask that labor, the farmer and business men join us not across, but on the same side of the table to accomplish our common purpose," Hopkins asserted.

First comment from business circles indicated a favorable reaction in general, to the speech. However, there were some who softened their appraisal of his plans with a suggestion that business wait for a practical demonstration of his program.

Hopkins first formal address since joining President Roosevelt's cabinet was made in a business setting. He was introduced to a Des Moines Economic club dinner by B. F. Kauffman, president of a bank here. On the other side of the speaker sat W. A. Harriman of Harriman, N. Y., chairman of the Union Pacific railroad board of directors and chairman of the business advisory council for the department of commerce.

Harriman said the speech "should be encouraging to everyone responsible for the conduct of business." He predicted Hopkins will be "the greatest secretary of commerce we ever had."

Carlisle said the secretary's comment on utilities "clearly indicates a desire on the part of the administration to remove doubt . . . as to the competitive fields of public ownership and op-

UP TO FIREMEN

Opening of Fire Plugs Must Be OK'd by Chief, Nist Says.

Opening of fire hydrants in the future by any municipal employe or WPA worker will be done under the supervision of the fire department, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said today.

Nist issued orders to all city departments and WPA that they were to obtain permission from Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger to use any hydrants. The order followed a second conference with the fire chief, Nist said, at which Seeburger complained that city workers and WPA were using pipe wrenches on the hydrant valves.

Seeburger pointed out that inspection of hydrants in the past two days revealed that two were found in the downtown district in need of repairs because the proper tool had not been used on the valve.

CONSERVANCY CLERK FIRED, AUDIT OPENS

Prosecutor Says Preliminary Examination Shows $1,700 Discrepancy In Books.

SECOND HERE IN 2 MONTHS

Kolb Closes City Conservancy Office, to Name Successor To Erdenberger.

R. K. Erdenberger, Mansfield conservancy district tax collector, was dismissed by County Treasurer John Kolb today, as a special state examiner began an audit of conservancy district tax books.

Prosecutor G. W. Marriott stated flatly today that a shortage in Erdenberger's accounts had been uncovered and said preliminary investigation showed a discrepancy of $1,700. The total may go higher than that, he said.

Second Special Audit Here.

The special audit, started today by State Examiner Irving Young, was the second in the county in the past two months. A recheck of the municipal court books recently showed shortages there amounting to $4,259.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb, who appointed Erdenberger to the office in September, 1935, said the deputy had been "temporarily dismissed." The conservancy office in the basement of the courthouse was closed about 10 a. m. today by the treasurer who said it would be re-opened early next week after he names another deputy.

Taxpayers Protest.

The discrepancy, which county authorities said went back as far as 1936, was uncovered two days ago when statements for the year's conservancy tax were mailed to property owners in Mansfield and Madison township.

A number of taxpayers protested to the treasurer, it was understood, when they received bills for taxes which they said they had paid. The complaints would indicate, authorities said, that payments were not credited on the books.

While Young, the examiner, was silent it was understood that he will question several property owners who protested to the treasurer that they were billed for taxes they already had paid.

Kolb declined to comment on the shortage, asserting that he had "turned all the information over to the state." Kolb requested the special audit, the examiner arriving in Mansfield late yesterday afternoon.

The treasurer's office was closed for an hour this morning while Young made a hurried

The legislator said that because of the ice he had to choose between driving his car into a train at a grade crossing or into a pole and he chose the pole as the safer.

U. S. Answers Hitler With Puerto Rico Fortifications

THREE-POINT DEFENSE PLAN SET IN MOTION

Nazi South American Activity Result In Program to Build 'Hawaii of the East.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam's answer to Chancellor Hitler's declaration that Nazi penetration of South America "is nobody's business but Germany's" will be fortification of Puerto Rico as an impregnable. "Hawaii of the east," it was learned today.

The West Indian island possession will be cenverted into a combined navy and army air and submarine base, bristling with high-powered arms, as the spearpoint of America's defense of the western hemisphere in the Atlantic.

3-Point Plan.

Immediate plans call for:

1. Installation with a minimum of delay of a naval submarine and air base on Isla Lagrande in San Juan harbor.

2. Establishment of an army air base on the island proper with heavy stationary and mobile long-range coast and anti-aircraft artillery.

3. Erection of huge underground gasoline and fuel oil supply tanks.

The major item in the $48,800,000 air and submarine base measure now being rushed through congress calls for initial expenditure of $9,000,000 for the navy's air and submarine base on Island Grande. The site already has been transferred to the navy from the island government.

"A base for patrol planes situated this far eastward in the Caribbean will be of major strategic importance," the navy board headed by Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn reported to President Roosevelt and congress.

The Hepburn report added that Puerto Rico also is of tremendous "importance strategically for submarine operations in the Caribbean."

President Roosevelt is reported to have approved plans for establishment of a $12,000,000 army air base on the east coast of the island near heavily fortified Culebra island, Major George Kenney and Major W. T. Lawson of the army and air corps, now in Puerto Rico as official observers of the naval war games, have been charged with investigating suitable sites for the army's base. The plan provides for an installation of 200 officers and 2,500 enlisted men as a permanent defense establishment.

Fortification of Puerto Rico is considered second only in importance to Hawaii in defense of the Continental United States, of the Panama Canal and of South America. It would extend America's present defense line 2,000 miles out into the Atlantic.

Mansfielders last night saw the most spectacular display of the aurora borealis this winter, but it played havoc with radio reception early in the evening. The aurora, known as northern lights, formed a huge halo in the northern sky with yellow "streamers" lashing out to a point almost overhead. The lights were brightest about 9 p. m. and faded out two hours later. The phenomena caused a crackling sound in radios as the "streamers," which resembled huge searchlights, flashed across the heavens.

While Paul W. Anyway, it will have a place of honor in the Williams' new home in Dayton.

Police on the night shift began to think they were going to have to adopt a small boy as mascot last night in order to get him off the street. They received a call at midnight that a boy had been locked in the Park theater and Patrolman Gordon Drury called Manager Ralph Shaffer to come to the boy's rescue. The seven-year-old had gone to sleep in the theater and slid down between the seats so that no one saw him. Drury took him home. An hour later—around 1 a. m., he got a call from a taxi company that a small boy was loitering there and when the officer went after him, it was the same youngster. Upon taking him home again the patrolman found the reason the youngster wouldn't stay home—his parents were gone and he had been alone. But his sister was home the second time and Drury turned him over to her.

BRADLEY, SELF-STYLED DAVEY 'CONTACT MAN, EVADES POLICE

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Lee Bradley, ace witness at last year's senate investigation of state affairs, will be asked to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court, Notary Public L. C. Dillon said today, for failure to appear at a deposition hearing in his $500,000 damage suit against former Gov. Martin L. Davey and General Motors Corp.

Dillon, taking depositions in the action, issued an attachment after Bradley failed to appear late yesterday but Ralph G. Garner, chief deputy sheriff, said his men could not locate the self-styled Davey "political contact man."

Bradley's home in Cleveland said he left Wednesday for the Columbus hearing but the hotel at which he was expected to register said last night he was not there and his whereabouts were unknown.

"This is a publicity stunt of Charley Druggan," asserted W. B. Bartels, Bradley's attorney. Druggan is counsel for Davey.

Bartels explained that he requested a week's postponement of the Thursday hearing but that it was scheduled for yesterday and he was unable to produce Bradley, although he asserted there was no intention of shunning the proceedings.

Bradley was scheduled to resume the story of his life as part of the proceedings in his damage action. Depositions were taken from Davey at previous hearings.

Bradley contended in his suit that he was prosecuted "maliciously" Feb. 19, 1938, when Davey caused his arrest on a perjury charge as the result of his testimony before the senate investigators. A Cuyahoga county jury later refused to indict him.

TRADE BARRIER BY NEIGHBORING STATES FEARED

Controversial Proposal to Come Before House For Debate Next Week.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Legislators and citizens interested in the operation of state government looked for a blast of oratory today when the Paskell-Marshall "Burn Ohio Coal" bill reaches the house floor next week.

One of the most controversial measures to come before the 136 representatives in the present general assembly, the bill, if passed, would force officials of state-supported institutions to buy Ohio-mined coal rather than that mined outside the state.

House Majority Leader J. Harry McGregor said the proposal probably would come up for debate Tuesday, but indicated it might be later in the week.

Wins Committee O. K.

The house mines committee recommended it for passage three weeks ago by an 11 to 0 vote, but the bill is so controversial that leaders hesitated bringing it up for a vote.

Sponsored by two representatives from coal mining sections, Reps. John Paskell (R-Perry) and Ralph G. Marshall (R-Muskingum,) the bill, according to many political observers, is looked upon by other states as most retaliatory.

Many were forecasting defeat for the bill in view of likely action by neighbor states in setting up trade barriers against Ohio.

A similar bill introduced in the senate by Sen. Ray Palmer, (R-Barnesville) has failed to be reported out of the commerce and labor committee.

The only stipulation which gives other states an "out" is one requiring that the state purchasing agent or institution officials may ask for bids from coal interests in other states. Purchase cannot be ordered unless the delivery price is not more than 10 per cent less than the lowest Ohio bid, however.

Another provision would allow institutions to burn out-of-state coal if facilities for using Ohio coal were not considered adequate. Mines inspectors would have charge of investigating such claims by institutions and would report to the purchasing agent. The agent would then decide whether Ohio coal could be used.

"There'll be a great airing of tonsils when this bill gets to the floor," McGregor said. "Everyone is getting set for a burst of oratory."

He was captured yesterday by Detective John Phillips, who had waited near "pawn shop row." Phillips said the suspect admitted the burglaries.

Not That It Matters

One Dignified Election; a Slight Slip In Dates; a 'Free Speech' Problem

—By JANE WILLIAMS

ONE of the most important elections in the world will be held next week and there will be neither politics nor campaign speeches connected with it.

The college of cardinals of the Catholic church will meet in secret next Wednesday in the Sistine chapel of the Vatican, with its atmosphere of solemnity and pictorial splendor, and one of their number will be elected to head 350 million Roman Catholics over the world.

Here is one big news story which will be followed by the best of the world's foreign correspondents, but none will have an opportunity to "crack it" before it is announced to the populace of Vatican City, and there will be no "inside dope" from "reliable sources."

WHEN this group of ecclesiastics meets there will be two secret ballots taken each day until a choice is made, and after each vote is counted the ballots will be wrapped in straw and burned in a fireplace and the trail of dark, heavy smoke coming from the chimney will tell the waiting multitudes thronging the colonades around the Apostolic palace that no choice has been made. But when the new head of the church has been named by the cardinals, the ballots, unmixed with straw are cast into the fireplace and a thin, white finger of smoke arising from the chimney tells the world that the Roman Catholic church has a new head. It is the only means of communication between the palace and the rest of the world during the conclave.

BUT the news lads from all over the world must cool their heels with the rest of the multitude and they will learn the identity of the new Pope only when he appears on the balcony to receive the acclamation of followers and to give his first benediction.

It is one of the world's most dramatic and thrilling spectacles, and this time there will be even greater significance, for the man who assumes that high office faces a tremendous task in a chaotic world; a world in which religion is being forced to wage a battle with politics.

MANSFIELD concert-goers were annoyed, irritated, provoked, not to say downright mad Thursday night when the radiators at Senior High school auditorium clanged out their loud and unmusical accompaniment all through two movements of the Mendelssohn concerto. Zimbalist would play a few notes as soft and mournfully sweet as the song of a wood dove and then clang! A few more notes and then bang! It sounded like the noise effects of a Boris Karloff "horror" film.

Something really should be done about it. Perhaps the building could be heated and the radiators turned off just before a concert or play, so that the deathknell would be over by the time the artists step on the stage.

People are still talking about the funny little trail of dust that the train of Marian Anderson's dress kicked up as she walked across the stage—and which well nigh ruined her evening dress. After that one big swish of dust it wouldn't have surprised me if she had come back on the stage to sing "Give Me My Boots and Saddle."

Honestly, it was that dusty.

NOTES On The Cuff: The "Jesse James" flicker did teach me something after all—sent me to the encyclopedia to see when Rural Free Delivery was instituted. It was in 1896, which made that mail box in front of Jesse's rural retreat only 14 years in error....Remind me to write the national flag code committee or someone for proper procedure when a picture of the flag is shown in a theater and the "Star Spangled Banner" played. I think persons in theaters and dining rooms are not supposed to arise, but I may be wrong. I have been.

AMERICANS are between the devil and the deep blue sea on this free speech proposition. If we take free speech away from the Communists and the Fascists and Nazis, we take it away from ourselves; and if we DON'T take it away from them, they'll keep on until they take it away from us.

It's just barely possible that real Americans may form a union of their own and adjust the free speech problem without a constitutional amendment. Something along those lines happened when the first Ku Klux Klan was organized in the South after the war and again when the Vigilantes took the law of the West into their own hands. It is a very "un-American" procedure but Americans have resorted to it in the past.

And you can't tell what the Brown Shirts and the Black Shirts and the red flag wavers may drive us to, in order to hang onto our own favorite color scheme of red, white and blue.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Present Bickerings of World Like Baying of Dog When the Moon Is Full

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Some of our people—a little more level-headed than others, perhaps—insist that it is a mistake to jaw back at the Hitler Bolsheviks in Germany and here, on the theory that if we refuse to answer back they will yell themselves out and lie down. In a way the situation suggests the barkings of dogs in the country on a still night when the moon is full. Dogs seem to go a little bit crazy when the moon is full, and when one starts to sound off another a mile away will answer back, and another a mile off in another direction will take it up and so on, until a whole country is a bedlam.

But then if an owner here and there in the chain of disturbance calls his mutt into the house, whangs it with a strap or switch and locks it in the cellar, that breaks the spell. Receiving no answer to their remarks, the dogs which remain in the wrangle, being out of earshot of one another, presently begin to brief up their comments. Their voices lose force, and in another half-hour they drowse off with a few diminished wuggs and grunts. Then everything falls quiet and peace reigns.

Some really sensible people, at a loss for any other reason for the silly temper of the human race these last twenty-some years, have been speculating seriously in the idea that we are victims of some mysterious rays of sun spots. That sounds as good as any other explanation, but no better, and can be referred to the entertainment committee. But we do know that Hitler is a screw ball, the first dog in the chorus, yawping and bellying away from the mountain top where he hides out alone with God only knows what lunatic thoughts and fancies in his queer, shrewish brain, and trying to answer him or outlast him is a futile and undignified occupation for people who are sane by any of the accepted tests.

And we have been seeing, too, that if we attempt to answer him or argue with him we sound almost as crazy as he is, because it is impossible to conduct repartee which is goofy on one side and intelligent on the other. He and his fellow-Bolsheviks, such as Joe Goebbels and his agents here in the anti-American bund, have the initiative and the advantage. They pose some insane proposition and argue in double-talk, and the first thing we know we are trying to discuss a lunatic idea in sensible language and baying as noisily and foolishly as Hitler himself.

What answer can you give a maniac who slaughters and persecutes people of all religions and himself worships bonfires in the mood of a tenement firebug, but sends agents here to establish religious freedom in America?

Or can you talk sense to an international conspirator, already convicted in court of spying on this nation, who sends agents here to become naturalized and do treason among us, but roars warnings that native American Jews are disloyal?

Is there any sane answer to a man who holds anti-American meetings under the protection of American laws, but in his own country decrees that any act against "the sound feeling of the nation" shall be punished even if there is no law against the act?

I am inclined to think those people are more than half right who say we ought to let him do the howling and, for our part, keep our information on him up to date and store up all the guns we can, no matter what he says.

Monday at the parish house; Women's Missionary society at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the church assembly room, and children of the church at 4 p. m. Monday at the parish house.

SCIENTIST TOPIC

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom! . . . And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him" (Colossians 3:16,17).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "After these things Jesus went over the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias. . . . And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles which he did on them that were diseased" (John 6:1,2).

ATTENTION PLEASE!

Some of our competitors have been circulating rumors that our work at 50c is no good.

In a time like this—a so-called special—our determination and our efforts is to serve the public the best we can. If there is any money to be made, that is our profit; if there is any money lost, that is also our loss. But above all, you must receive the same service and quality work that you get at highest prices.

It is our opinion and experience that we do not need a patent or copyright to do good work, but we do need machinery and experienced people. We have both in this case.

Here are a few tricks to judge good dry cleaning. Take a white piece of material and rub it on the cloth; after you have done that if the material is clean the garment is clean—if it is not clean then the garment is not clean. Examine the bottom of the sleeve lining to see if the perspiration has been removed; feel the knees of the pants to see that the perspiration has been removed; feel the cloth to see if it is as soft as it should be. As for pressing, the lapls should be reshaped and soft, the shoulders should be reshaped, the pockets should not sag, lining of suits pressed and all other things on the garment should be satisfactory.

We have been in business in Mansfield for 25 years and try to serve the public the best of our ability. Therefore we ask you to examine the garments before accepting them from the drivers.

Please remember we have one price—one quality—the best at any price. With the above determination we continue to serve the public.

Safeguarded Rights of Minorities.

COMING of the first Sunday in Lent, with the increased emphasis that this season places on religion and its spiritual implications, tends to direct thought to the religious freedom accorded people in this country, in contrast to the intolerance being exhibited in totalitarian countries.

It was in search for a place where each might worship God in accordance with the dictates of conscience that many came from European homelands to America during the early days of this country, and it is in the first article of the Bill of Rights that a safeguard of religious freedom is made a part of the United States Constitution, in these words:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof . . ."

It is in the nature of things, due to diversity in human thought, that there are differences in religious beliefs—so that each group, however large, constitutes a minority as compared with the total of those holding to other faiths.

But back of these differences, and of paramount importance, is the fundamental idea of a Supreme Being and a spiritual existence that extends beyond human life.

Tolerance demands that each, while firm in his own beliefs and conscientious in performance of obligations thereunder, should respect the honest religious beliefs of others and put no obstacle in the way of those who have chosen a different route to the same destination.

Intolerance says: "My way is right, therefore you must follow it"—even to the extent of attempting to abolish some religious groups and destroying their places of worship.

Religious freedom, freedom of speech and of the press, are three essentials to the preservation of America as a government "of the people, by the people, for the people." This Lenten season is a fitting time for all adherents to ANY religious organization to be thankful that THEIR minority is safeguarded by the Constitution of the United States.

Taxes and Prosperity.

ASKED about the question of new federal taxes to help balance the budget, President Roosevelt replied that there is no need to worry about taxes, unless congress reduces present levels or increases present spending plans.

The implication seems to be that present taxes will be adequate with the revival of business. This could happen in two ways; improved business would provide more public income with the present tax rates, and would also diminish the need of spending for relief, because more people would be employed.

Business has been gaining a little lately, but must improve considerably more if the government is to get out of the red without such levies as have been found necessary in England, France and Germany.

It is generally recognized now that the first essential to reviving prosperity is peace and co-operation between government and business. There have been gestures in that direction lately by both sides. The department of commerce seems particularly eager to reassure business.

The country today needs such understanding more than it needs anything else, more even than military defense. Productive co-operation of business and government is itself the best defense.

Money to Rehabilitate Spain.

THE Spanish situation is taking a curious turn. Capitalists in various countries turn to Spain for investment. Nations that helped wreck Spain, as well as those that stood by and tacitly acquiesced in the wrecking, are eager to aid in the reconstruction. For a suitable reward, of course.

An American correspondent in Burgos reports General Franco is estimating that the country will need "a minimum of $10,000,000,000 on long-term credit loans."

It is natural for American business concerns and investors with interests in Spain to use American capital for the restoration of their properties there. It is also natural that, for philanthropic reasons, Americans should want to share in rebuilding the wrecked country.

But any Quixotic rush to pour billions of American money into a country so far away, having so little connection with the life and interests of the United States, should not be encouraged. Especially when Spain seems doomed to be another Fascist country under the joint dictatorship of Franco, Mussolini and Hitler.

What is really needed is investment of American money, on a vast scale, right here at home.

First Hundred Years of Rubber.

RUBBER is put to so many uses, and plays such an important part in present-day living, that it is hard to realize only one hundred years have passed since discovery of the vulcanizing process, by which raw rubber is transformed into thousands of essential products.

It is entirely proper that Akron should take the initiative in commemorating the centennial of Charles Goodyear's discovery of a way to vulcanize rubber gum, but many other cities, and millions of individuals who have benefited thereby, may well join in a tribute to the memory of the man whose experiments led to widespread use of one of the most versatile substances to which mankind has access.

If, as has been said, the first hundred years are the hardest, baseball may now be expected to go along nicely—with Cleveland again looking like a pennant-winner all through the spring.

One issue of the Billboard, a theatrical publication, advertises three crooners "at liberty"—but they are probably regarded as comparatively harmless.

Report comes that Goebbels is offering 100 marks for a joke—but radio comics would probably outbid him.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The extent to which the United States is willing to go on being the "good neighbor" to the southern republics is put to the test by the Argentine trade rebellion.

Although the rebellion broke suddenly, it didn't take Washington officials entirely by surprise. Argentina has had complaints of several years' standing. Moreover, U. S. officials knew that Argentina was under pressure from Germany and England to give them a larger share of business.

In years past when trade barriers were only moderately high the United States traded freely with Argentina. In years when Argentina bought from us more than she sold she in turn sold England a lot of Argentine goods. That's how she got the extra cash to pay for the excess of U. S. goods. In turn, the U. S. bought British goods so England could pay Argentina. Foreign trade on that basis is a round robin affair, which balances out in the end, all things considered.

But after the war first one country, then another, failed to buy its quota and so broke down the system. One of the things that tended to break down the Argentine- U. S. part of the system, officials here concede, was the steady rise since 1922 in U. S. tariffs on Argentina products such as hides, flaxseed, linseed oil and canned meats.

Against Two Way Pacts.

ARGENTINA negotiated special trade agreements with England and Germany. In the Argentine-British agreement England gets a 20 per cent exchange advantage. Germany gets something comparable. Secretary Hull refuses to have anything to do with these strictly two-way trade agreements. So U. S. trade has had to hurdle a 20 per cent advantage in order to compete with England.

Nevertheless the U. S. has competed. During 1938, as an instance, Argentina bought $76,750,000 of U. S. goods and paid $16,000,000 on her debts, a total of $92,750,000. The United States, however, bought only $29,000,000 of Argentina goods. That made Argentina dig into its pockets for $63,750,000 to send here.

Since England and Germany buy more from Argentina than they sell, they can squeeze concessions. Also, since Argentina is buying more from the U. S. than she sells us, she can squeeze us. She is doing it. A 40 per cent cut in U. S. purchases has been ordered, knocking off about $31,000,000 of trade.

Auto Dealers Hurt.

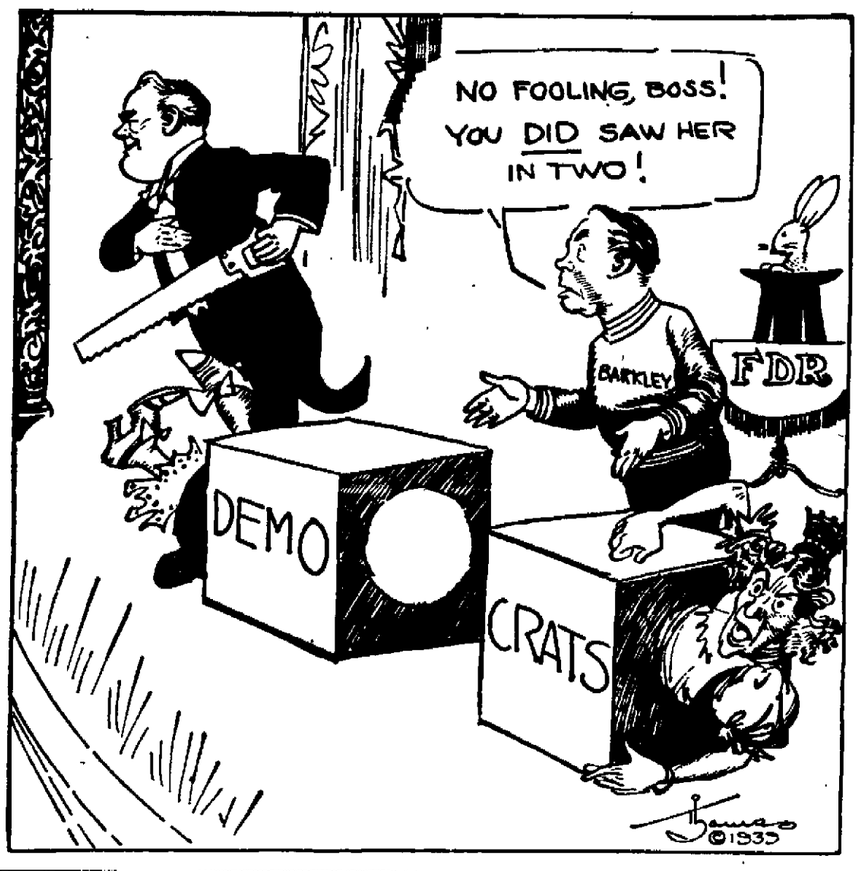

STIFFEST jolt was to U. S. automobiles. German and British exporters, including automobile manufacturers, will be allowed to make up the difference. A novel situation is that one of the most popular brands of German-made automobiles sold in Argentina is a little car manufactured by a German branch of an American company.

One factor especially annoying to Argentina is the U. S. quarantine against Argentine fresh meat. Argentina has hoof-and-mouth disease among its cattle in part of the country. Until 1930 the U. S. allowed fresh meat to be shipped in from non-infected areas. In the 1930 tariff act, however, American cattlemen persuaded Congress to shut out Argentina fresh meat altogether. They said there was danger of infecting American cattle. Besides, they insisted, America produced enough meat anyway.

The State Department tried to remedy the situation with a special "sanitary treaty" letting meat come in from non-infected areas as before 1930, but the cattlemen have blocked it. Argentina now hints that it would purr more contentedly if we ratified the treaty, lowered some tariffs and bought more goods. The goods she has to sell are mostly farm products, of which we have too many already.

But if we please Argentina we will have to use more from there, and less of our own. What would you do?

SOMETHING WRONG WITH THE MAGIC

Morgenthau Resignation Foreseen

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—The little boy who cried "Wolf, wolf" when there was no wolf has nothing on the rumor that Henry Morgenthau, jr., will resign as secretary of the treasury. The first rumor of Morgenthau's resignation came within a few months after he had succeeded William H. Woodin at the head of the treasury department. It has been bobbing up ever since, on the average of not less than once every two months.

So when the real time comes probably no one will believe the warning. But there are actual reasons this time for believing that Morgenthau is on the verge of resignation, and for two perfectly understandable reasons.

Well-informed sources say that the president and Morgenthau have finally reached just about the breaking point on the chief issue on which they have so consistently differed. It can be summed up in the words "balanced budget." But it includes much more than just spending more than the government's income year after year. It takes in also the continual movement of the president toward the left, whereas Morgenthau has clung to the original conservative views he entertained when he came to Washington.

WHEN Morgenthau became secretary of the treasury he was perfectly willing to follow instructions because he realized that he did not know very much about treasury problems. By dint of hard work and long hours, however, he has learned a great deal about public finances. The more he has learned the more outspoken he has become to his advocacy of his original conservative viewpoint.

This does not mean that Mr. Morgenthau has at any time been disloyal to the president. On the contrary there is scarcely a man in the administration who has been so steadfastly devoted to every whim and wish of the president, or who has worked harder to make White House desires come true whether he approved them or not.

But inside the cabinet he has fought for his own ideas, on the budget, on spending, or harassing business, etc.

Right now the same old battle is being waged again with the group which advocates more spending and which worries not at all about the mounting size of the federal debt, headed by Marriner S. Eccles, of the Federal Reserve board. Morgenthau is said by friends to be more disturbed than ever before on this particular issue.

First, the secretary is much surer that he is right now than he ever was before. Second, he has always yielded before because the argument was made that the need for letting spending run above receipts was only temporary—that with the passage of time the spending could be reduced, as private employment increased, and that actually the budget could be balanced.

NOW Morgenthau believes that such an objective will never be attained so long as the present advice the president is being given from the other camp is heeded—that the men who want more spending and more pump priming now will also want it next year, almost regardless of any conceivable set of events in the meantime, and that they will want it the following year, and the year after that.

He dislikes more and more to lend himself to the perpetuation of a policy he regards—very privately of course—as so cockeyed. Meanwhile the pleas of his father for him to get out of the government and attend to the family interests—he is the only son—continue.

Life Must Be a Compromise.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE. It's as necessary to realize what you CAN'T DO as it is to know what you CAN. No one ever gets anywhere in life until he accepts this fact and proceeds to act upon it . . . and the sooner he starts to do this, the better for all concerned. Practically all our human misery arises from our failure or refusal to adjust ourselves to life. We want the moon. And we'll refuse to play—or raise hell—if we don't have it.

You have heard it said that "anyone can be or do whatever he wishes if he wishes enough." This is a delightful theory and has probably promoted more cockeyed cults and duped more sore-eyed suckers than any other con game on earth. But it simply isn't true. It takes much more than "wishing" to accomplish anything. More than even working. You've got to have what it really takes . . . and not just what your vanity suggests.

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE. There is no cynicism in this statement . . . it is plain common sense. The world is too full of other people and other plans for any one mortal to achieve his full, personal desire. Moreover—this may hurt, dearie, but take it like a little soldier!—most of us overestimate our own ability tremendously when planning our careers. We're not only incapable of achieving the triumphs we've mapped out, but we'd be bored stiff or scared silly if we did achieve them. It's one thing to DREAM of being a Super-man or woman, but quite another to take the beating it implies.

Life MUST be a compromise—and that's a tough job for anyone. It's both humiliating and discouraging to consider your liabilities instead of your assets . . . to figure on FAILURE as well as SUCCESS. It's particularly tough for us Americans. We haven't been educated for it. To the contrary, we've been educated along entirely different lines of thought. We're a 100 per cent Success Nation with a Pollyanna Philosophy . . . fired by the exaggerated enthusiasm of youth and its magnificent unreasonableness.

This is a grand break in many ways—but apt to prove a nuisance in others. Having been reared on miracles, we refuse to admit that they can't happen in our personal careers. The very vastness of our power and wealth encourages us to despise mediocrity. The fairy tale design of our growth helps us to stay in the Land of Make-believe. If Bill Brown can rise from rags to riches overnight . . . if Susy Smith can soar from scrub rags to star sapphires . . . why can't you also achieve such perfect pride and joy?

The answer is — THEY HAVEN'T AND NEITHER CAN YOU! THERE AIN'T NO SUCH ANIMAL AS "PERFECT JOY" FOR ANYONE. Examine any career—no matter how glamorous it may seem—and you will speedily find that its glory is only relative. In comparison with your more hum drum program, it may seem the height of heart's desire. Actually, it's just another compromise between what some mortal wanted and what he managed to get . . . and, beneath the spangles, he's no more content than you are.

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE—a dicker between your childish delusions of grandeur and grim reality. Somewhere along the line there's a point where you can fit and function happily. But nobody's going to find that point for you. You must discover it for yourself . . . by cutting out the glory and the ga-ga, the dreaming and the drifting, the tears and the tantrums . . . AND GROWING UP. When you've done that—but not until—you'll know man-sized pride and happiness.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT devoted this week to Problem 20, defense of the American tropics. And congress discussed defense topics in general.

Before sailing through the Caribbean's warm, blue waters on a warship, the president hailed San Francisco's Golden-Gate-Exposition Treasure Island as "an outstanding example of territorial expansion without aggression." Then, in greeting the Pan American Hernando de Soto Exposition at Tampa, Fla., he told the world: "In the western hemisphere, in the three Americas, the institutions of democracy—government with the consent of the governed—must and shall be maintained."

And to newsmen he hinted that foreign affairs might force him to shorten his cruise.

German newspapers dubbed this "new baiting by peace-disturber Roosevelt." And Italian Foreign Minister Ciano's newspaper charged an imperialistic, puritanical, Anglo-Saxon minority led by the president was arming American minds for another war to save democracy."

Curb the Commander?

The senate military affairs committee, meanwhile, revealed that Mr. Roosevelt overrode the war department's objections recently to facilitate U. S. warplane sales to France. "The president shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy," says the Constitution, but Republican Sen. Nye thought his power to make it posible for foreigners to buy made-in-America planes should be restricted.

Nye warned: "Steps are being taken, policies are being inaugurated, precedents established today that in large degree parallel the road to war which America trod only a little more than 20 years ago."

But Democratic Sen. Minton asserted: "If everyone knew what the senate military committee knows, there would not be a person in the country who would criticize the president."

Democrats Hang Together.

The senate military committee unanimously okayed a $358,000,000 bill Wednesday to enlarge the U. S. army's air force. War Secretary Woodring urged that there be no limit set on the number of planes to be added, but the committee held 6,000 would be enough.

The House passed a $48,800,000 bill to finance an air base program but refused $5,000,000 asked by the president to fortify Guam.

Senate Republican Leader McNary announced his party would offer no obstacles to speedy consideration of administration measures. "All we want," he said, "is a reasonable amount of time to study each bill."

TVA Appropriation.

The senate this week considered a $1,898,000,000 appropriation for independent agencies of the government such as ICC and NLRB. Included was a $17,206,000 allotment for TVA which the house of representatives had struck out. An effort to cut this item $4,252,000 as "a start toward reducing the government's vast expenditures" failed, 49 to 31. The senate then returned the bill to the house.

QUOTES

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, pension planner: "Frugality ought to be an obsolete word."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt: "I believe in the social security act, old-age pensions and the national youth act, but never as a fundamental answer. . . . . They have been a stop-gap.

Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton, Phi Beta Kappa keynoter: "We are against the super-state, even when advocated in the name of false Americanism."

At Home

Bund Whoops.

Hitler's American imitators, the German-American Bund, had their say Monday night in New York's fight arena, Madison Square Garden. Mayor LaGuardia — whom they denounce for attacking Hitler—upheld their right to free speech, and 1,500 police guarded them.

Bund "storm troopers" in grey shirts with swastika arm bands shuffled about the hall in march formations between speeches — which ostensibly were to celebrate Washington's birthday. The Bund had promised, when it rented the hall, that there would be no anti-Semitic utterances, but the orators called for a stop to "Jewish domination of Christian Americans" and one speaker referred to the president as "Franklin Rosenfeld."

Girl Reporter Dorothy Thompson was ousted for laughingly shouting "Bunk!" and Isadore Greenbaum, who rushed toward heavy-accented Chief Bundsman Fritz Kuhn while he was denouncing Jews, was slugged by storm troopers—who also tore off Greenbaums' pants before police could carry him out.

In Los Angeles two days later, uniformed Bundsmen outside a meeting were routed by egg-throwers.

Dewey vs. Dodge.

New York's District Attorney Dewey this week cross-examined his predecessor as prosecutor, William C. Dodge. On trial was Tammany Leader Jimmy Hines, accused of "influencing and intimidating" Dodge for the late Dutch Schultz's policy gang. Dodge admitted knowing that "thousands of dollars" for his 1933 campaign came from Hines but denied he knew it was "gangster money."

The defense rested without putting Hines on the witness stand and the case was ready for the jury today.

Runaway Engine.

When an explosion drove the fireman out of a locomotive cab on a dark, lonely Iowa sidetrack, he sprang back to save the engineer. Then, as both men fell out, the engine began to back up. It hit some freight cars, leaped forward, and raced down the main line with a grain car bumping ahead of it. There was no one to stop it—and a passenger train was coming. Two men died and 23 persons were injured in the collision.

Peace Gestures.

Although 17 per cent more people paid income taxes last spring than the year before, the sum they paid dropped 5. 1 per cent, "Nurturing" business, Postmaster General Farley opined, is "the only means of obtaining more comfort for the have-nots." And the president, before leaving on his cruise, indicated he contemplated no further power projects in competition with private enterprise and no tax increases affecting business.

Uncle Sam, Banker.

At its peak, President Hoover's Federal Farm board, which tried to put a floor under farm prices by loaning money to farmers on surplus produce to keep it off the market, had $466,000,000 invested in wheat, cotton, livestock, vegetables, etc. The New Deal scrapped FFB in favor of AAA but later revived commodity loans. This week they reached $750,000,000.

As security for three-fourths of that total, Uncle Sam holds 11,200,000 bales of cotton—about as much as the U. S. produces in a normal year. Some congressmen think the government ought to cancel half the cotton loans and use the security (1) to make bedding and clothes for relief families and (2) as an extra subsidy to cotton farmers for further 1939 acreage reduction.

Abroad

Trade Maneuvers.

Thanks to the economic interpretations of history, peace appears now to be linked with trade. And Britain's minister of overseas trade, R. S. Hudson, soon will visit both Berlin and Moscow.

Germany, Adolf Hitler has said, must "export or die"—and Germany's trade with other countries declined in January. Russia, to fulfill Joseph Stalin's third five-year plan, is said to need imports—and Moscow recently has made or renewed trade pacts with Poland, France, Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania. Recent moves toward a Russo-German trade agreement failed, however, because the Germans objected to the "political importance" which other nations attached to such negotiations.

Efforts to improve economic relations between Britain and Germany have been under way for some time.

Mexican Plan.

CTM, the Confederation of Workers of Mexico, usually has the Cardenas administration's wholehearted support. Now it has hatched a six-year plan to increase labor's participation in government, collectivize agriculture and control foreign trade. This plan, Mexico City business men fear, would destroy private property rights.

Aviation

8 Out of 12 Crash.

The gas tank was empty. The student pilot from the Pensacola, Fla., naval school had no radio. Fog hid the earth. For nearly an hour he had not seen the other 11 planes in the fleet with which he had taken off. He leaped out, landed in a waist-deep river, and stood there shouting until fishermen found him. He was lucky.

Eight of the 12 single-seat planes caught aloft in the sudden fog Monday night crashed. Two of the fliers, one of them a Brazilian officer, were killed. The navy is investigating.

Passengers Gassed.

Ten passengers cruised pleasantly 20,000 feet above Minnesota in this week's 32-degrees-below-zero weather—and didn't become dizzy, because they had small oxygen-helium masks over their noses. Tubes connected the masks to a common feeder line.

The masks, designed at the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., will serve not only in sub-stratosphere flying but also to replace expensive hospital oxygen tents.
